WEATHER

Cloudy and colder today and tonight, chance of a few snow flurries. Cloudy with little change Thanksgiving Day. Continued cool Friday, possible rain or snow.

IT'S 23 DAYS NOW

Christmas will be here before we know it. Now there are 23 shopping days left.

Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

Mostly cloudy and colder today and tonight, with a chance of a few snow flurries today, high in the low 40s, low tonight in the upper 20s. Mostly cloudy with little change in temperature Thanksgiving Day, high again in the low 40s. Probability of precipitation, 40 per cent today, 20 per cent tonight and Thursday. Northwesterly winds, 12-20 miles per hour, today and tonight. Extended outlook for Friday, continued cool with a chance of rain or snow. Tuesday's weather: high 46, low 32; a trace of precipitation, river level 6.19 feet and rising.

KINZUA DAM REPORT

Pool level 1313.86 feet (desired summer pool level 1328 feet; maximum level 1365 feet). Upstream 45 degrees; downstream water 44 degrees. Warren Gauge 6.14 feet and rising.

WARREN COUNTY

Warren County's combined school boards . . . regular and vocational-technical . . . act to initiate steps which will lead to the construction of a county vocational-technical school; a new Sheffield High School and a new South Street Elementary School. The overall estimated cost of the projects is $4,214,500. This figure, however, does not include state reimbursements for such projects.

Two Warren County projects are recommended in the state Appalachian Development Plan — a vocational-technical school and low cost housing construction.

Officers of the proposed Shibui complex are almost ready to talk with Allegheny National Forest officials about a land swap.

Warren receives the first installment of a state grant for the Oak St. swimming pool complex today.

An analysis of Warren's need for a low cost housing project is expected to be started soon by a Philadelphia consulting firm.

PENNSYLVANIA

House Minority Leader Herbert Fineman of Philadelphia is slated by Democrats to preside over the chamber as speaker during the 1969-70 legislative sessions.

Pennsylvanians, urged by their governor to show their gratitude for the good life by sharing their abundance, observe Thanksgiving 1968 Thursday.

THE NATION

U.S. officials are concerned that spies with access to NATO's secrets may have told Russia where American nuclear weapons are stored in Europe.

President-elect Richard M. Nixon rounds out the top level of his White House staff and dispatches the newest assistant, former Kansas congressman Robert Ellsworth, to look at a British think-tank specializing in defense matters.

THE WORLD

The U.S. and Saigon announce that South Vietnam has agreed to join in the Paris peace talks with North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front.

Premier Couve de Murville outlines France's program to save the franc, including cancellation of its 1969 atomic tests and a tax program.

Christian Democrat leader Mariano Rumor is asked to form a new center-left government and break a week-old government crisis in Italy.

SPORTS

Honors are coming in for Warren High's outstanding players as Steve Tundel and John Marchione are two-way selectees on the 1968 All-State team and Tundel received an All-State honorable mention in one poll.

Youngsville took an early lead, then had to hang on through a Ridgway press to eke out a two-point victory; Eisenhower and Tidoute weren't so fortunate, as both schools were bested in Tuesday's scholastic cage program.

Behrend Center of Edinboro did itself proud with a 28-point victory over DuBois campus. Dave Bucka was high for EOC with 30 points in the season opener.

O. J. Simpson was just about everybody's choice for the Heisman Trophy, as he corralled the award by about a 2½-to-1 margin.

Gannon College starts its cage season this weekend, and the Erie Golden Knights picked a real toughie for their opener — Niagara University, led by All-American Calvin Murphy.

Vo-Tech Gets Green Light; Two Other Projects Okayed

By NOEL DODD

Three county school building projects totalling $4,214,500 were approved at Tuesday night's meeting of the combined school boards—regular and vocational-technical.

The projects are:
— A vocational-technical school to be constructed behind the existing Warren Area High School at an estimated cost of $1,794,500.

— A new Sheffield High School to be constructed at site yet to be chosen for an estimated cost of $1,500,000.

— A new South Street Elementary School to be erected at the site of the existing school for an estimated cost of $920,000.

2 Projects Recommended For Appalachian Funds

Two Warren County projects have been recommended in the Pennsylvania Appalachian Development Plan for the three-year period ending June 30, 1971.

They are: A vocational-technical school and construction of Section 221 housing, which is one of several federal programs covering low cost housing projects.

The status of the county's proposed vocational-technical school was outlined at last night's School Board meeting, and John Hanna Jr., president of Warren Housing, Inc., explained Tuesday where the borough's low income housing plans stand at the present time.

The projects are included in the state's plan that was submitted to the Appalachian Regional Commission.

The plan sets forth the state's goals and objectives, identifies growth potentials on the basis of both economic and social factors, and establishes priorities for spending Appalachian funds during the next three-year period.

Governor Shafer stated in the summary of his plan that he is fully aware that funds will be limited . . . that they must therefore be spent where they will have the maximum benefit in creating permanent jobs, higher income levels and improved living conditions.

He said the top priorities for the state's Appalachian Development Plan will be: access roads to economic industrial travel development sites; vocational schools; airports which serve economic development sites; mine area reclamation projects; sewage treatment plants where economic development benefits can be shown; higher education facilities for science oriented research; hospital facilities; educational television as part of statewide network; audio-visual instructional materials centers; housing improvement; and water supply projects.

"The Appalachian Development Plan is considered to be but one element in the statewide development planning program for Pennsylvania which is presently under study," the governor said.

Boro Receives State Grant For Pool

Warren will receive the first installment of a state grant for the Oak Street swimming pool complex today. State Sen. Richard Frame will present a check for $25,000 from Project 70-500 funds.

An additional grant for $61,548 will be applied for upon completion of the project. Project 70-500 funds are allocated on a matching basis for recreational projects. The total grant to Warren for the swimming pool will be $86,548.

The rest of the cost of the $350,000 project is being raised locally. About $185,000 was subscribed here in a drive in 1966. Borough manager Victor Miller said the pool will be open for operation next May 30 but that it will actually be completed long before it is warm enough for swimmers. A number of clean up jobs remain and they will be done when the weather permits, he said. Work began on the site late in 1967.

The complex will include indoor and outdoor pools, an outdoor wading pool and facilities for court games.

Coordinating Policy Council Proposed by County Chamber

The board of directors of the Warren County Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Tuesday night authorized the executive vice president to investigate the possibilities of setting up a Warren County policy council which would be composed of representatives from all groups in the county working on some phase of development and which could serve as an overall coordinating body for scheduling major projects. Seen ideally as a "super committee," it would be set up basically to improve the communications link between groups "to let the right hand know what the left hand is doing."

It was reported at the meeting that this technique has recently been successfully implemented in a number of communities.

Shibui Officers May Swap Land With ANF

Officers of Kuni Development Corp., of Jamestown, the firm planning to develop the multi-million dollar Shibui Complex in Pleasant Township, are almost ready to talk with Allegheny National Forest officials about a land swap.

Lewis C. Krueger, corporate head, said Tuesday he's about ready to discuss the terms of the swap with Ralph Freeman, supervisor, Allegheny National Forest. The Kuni Corporation has expressed the need for acquiring 160 acres of forest land for developing an 18-hole golf course in conjunction with the remainder of the project.

If, however, a swap can't be worked out, it is not absolutely critical to our plans, Krueger said. "It will mean no golf course, but this is not considered a primary factor in the overall development," he said.

Freeman said a swap is theoretically possible on a value for value basis. The land, however, must be within the confines of the forest, he said. Krueger reported Monday that a public hearing on the proposed Shibui Complex is set for 8 p.m. Dec. 30 at the Court House and the official groundbreaking ceremony is scheduled for April 15, 1969.

South Vietnam Agrees to Come To Peace Table

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Saigon announced Tuesday night that South Vietnam has agreed to join in the Paris peace talks with North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front.

The agreement, announced simultaneously in Washington and Saigon, was welcomed by President Johnson as opening a new hopeful phase of the negotiations. But the President cautioned again that hard bargaining and fighting still lie ahead. His statement was issued shortly after he arrived at his Texas ranch for the Thanksgiving holiday.

The Saigon regime, which has balked at sitting down at the conference table with the Vietcong's political arm, the National Liberation Front, will be "the main spokesman on all matters of principal concern to South Vietnam" the U.S. statement said.

There was no indication of how soon the South Vietnamese delegation will reach Paris, but a U.S. official predicted that the talks can be started before Jan. 1.

As made public here, the Saigon statement said that South Vietnam is prepared to participate in the new talks in Paris with the Hanoi delegation to show the good will of the Republic of Vietnam and to test the good faith of Hanoi.

While giving Saigon the leading voice on South Vietnam's internal matters, the agreement reserves to the United States the dominant role in discussions affecting the U.S. military forces and the withdrawal of troops, both allied and North Vietnamese.

The U.S. statement which accompanied Saigon's pledge to end its boycott of the Paris negotiations laid down a series of See VIETNAM, Page 2

France Cancels 'A' Tests In Effort to Save Franc

PARIS (AP) — Fallout from the international monetary crisis forced France Tuesday to cancel its 1969 atomic tests in program of government economies and tax changes designed to save the franc.

Premier Maurice Couve de Murville told the National Assembly the purpose of the belt-tightening was to balance the economy, expand production and protect the franc from speculation that brought on last week's currency crisis.

To the applause of the Gaullist majority and interruptions from Communists and Socialists, Couve de Murville said the 1969 budget deficit, expected to reach $2.34 billion, will be cut to $1.27 billion.

Announced cutbacks in government spending amounted to only a fraction of the $1.07 billion savings, so taxes, service rate changes and increased production probably will be counted on to shave the deficit.

As Couve de Murville explained the program: "This means pain, work, discipline. This is the only price of salvation. If this is the will of the nation, victory is assured."

Couve de Murville announced these measures:

— The military budget will be trimmed by $80 million, making it impossible to hold the 1969 atomic tests in the South Pacific. The tests this year included the explosion of the first hydrogen device.

— The credits for the joint Concorde supersonic jet transport plane venture with Great Britain will be cut by $12 million. This and the atomic program are both prestige projects. French aviation sources said the cut would not materially affect the $2-billion program and the first prototype will be test flown in early January. Some British aviation sources saw delays, however.

— Subsidies granted to such money-losing nationalized industries as coal, rails, gas and power, will be cut by $230 million.

— Railway freight rates will be increased 6.2 per cent and gas and high tension power rates will go up 4.8 per cent Dec. 1. This will help offset the reduction in subsidies.

— The 4.25 per cent payroll tax will be abolished in an effort to lower costs of export goods.

— The added value—or sales tax—will be increased, and this will apply to imports as a further help to the export trade.

Nixon Dispatches Aide To British 'Think Tank'

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon named the last of his top White House assistants Tuesday and dispatched his newest aide to London to take a look at a British "think tank" specializing in defense matters.

Nixon named Robert F. Ellsworth, 42, an attorney and former congressman from Kansas as an assistant. Ellsworth was national political director during the campaign.

The new aide was ordered to fly to London Tuesday night to study the "manner and mode of operation" of the Institute of Strategic Studies, and compare it to American "think tanks" such as the Rand Corp.

Ellsworth is to return to New York Sunday, and have lunch with Henry Ford II to discuss the National Alliance for Business, a group involved in such matters as providing jobs for the hard-core unemployed.

The new assistant thus will be involved in a broad sweep of governmental affairs for the president-elect in the space of a few days. Ellsworth's White House job was described as one with a "broad general charter."

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press spokesman, said Ellsworth is to be "a generalist in the true sense of the word." Ziegler said he will perform special projects for Nixon, ranging from foreign affairs through the cities and states.

Ziegler said the Ellsworth appointment rounds out the highest level of White House assistants. Bryce Harlow and H. R. "Bob" Haldeman also hold the title of assistant. John Ehrlichman is counsel and Herbert G. Klein is director of communications for the executive branch.

Nixon spent the day working in his 39th-floor offices in the Hotel Pierre, meeting with his aides. He had no appointments scheduled with anyone else, Ziegler said.

The president-elect plans to remain in New York City well into next week, Ziegler said, but will make a short trip to Washington on Thanksgiving Day.

Extended Airport Runway Now Being Used at Bradford

Airplanes began touching down on the main runway at Bradford Regional Airport Tuesday following partial completion of a runway enlargement program at the Mt. Alton facility.

Use of the lengthened runway will be restricted to daylight hours since installation of lights has not yet been completed. LeRoy Schneck, vice chairman of the airport authority, said it is hoped that the lights will be functional by next week enabling both night and daytime use of the runway, he said.

Schneck said official acceptance by the Federal Aviation Authority will not be made until next spring when grading and seeding of the area around the runway is completed.

Work on the project began this spring. The original completion date was Oct. 15 but this was not met due to a delay in paving. Planes have been using a north-south runway in the interim.

Warren County as a member of the airport authority is paying about $50,000 as its share of the project. The county's share is 25.5 per cent of the total cost.

Warren County's representatives on the authority are Schneck and Jack Lutz.

Another Explosion Rocks Mine

MANNINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — The big coal mine where 78 men have been trapped for nearly seven days throbbed with another explosion Tuesday, soon after a mine official said the search would continue, no matter how remote the possibility of rescue.

The blast belched smoke from one of the portals of Mountaineer Coal Co. No. 9 and was another setback in efforts to reach the entombed men.

There has been no contact with any of the 78 since the first explosion ripped through the mine and set off intense fire deep within it last Wednesday.

The 99 men of the midnight shift were about to finish work when the mine shuddered from an explosion. Twenty-one men escaped or were rescued.

The latest blast—14th—to wrack the mine which sprawls over eight miles—came just after Consolidation Coal Co. President John Corcoran told a news conference: "No matter how remote the possibility, we won't close any avenue of escape. We won't cut the rope."

He said the mine would not be sealed "until a reason for keeping it open does not exist."

an architect.
A special committee was appointed to handle the retaining of an architect or architects for all three projects.

Mrs. Ellen Smith, prior to approval of the resolutions, said she preferred not to vote on the proposals until it was determined which one came first.

Dr. Barratt said the three should be moved as a package, and that it was highly unlikely that they'd develop along parallel lines. For example, he said, the South Street School project is already ahead of the other two.

The resolution pertaining to the Sheffield project asked that a revised application be submitted to the Dept. of Public Instruction with relation to the construction of a new secondary school in Sheffield Township at a new site.

The revision, Dr. Barratt said, is necessary since the original application had requested approval for an addition to the existing Sheffield High School.

The long range developmental 500 pupil capacity secondary school for grades nine through 12; the building to be located immediately west of Sheffield so that sewage, water, and utilities are readily available, and a minimum of transportation program is required.

The resolution adopted by the Warren County Area Vocational-Technical School Board, which convened immediately after the regular board session was adjourned, recommended the state be petitioned for site approval...utilizing a portion of the Warren Area High School site for the vocational-technical school.

In his report, Dr. Barratt said "placement of the school on the same site as Warren Area High School would keep transportation costs to a minimum, provide actual reduction in student attendance at any given time in the high school, thus helping prevent overcrowding. In addition, it eliminates the cost of acquiring additional land for construction, and requires minimum cost to gain access to site and provide utilities for the building."

The state has already promised Appalachia funds to defray a portion of the vocational school's cost.

Samuel A. Marek, director, Warren County Area Vocational-Technical School, received word from Clifford A. Jones, Secretary of Commerce and the state's member on the Appalachian Regional Commission, that a $200,000 grant has been recommended.

Other school construction projects contained in the 10-year long range plan are: Starbrick, North Warren, Youngsville High School, and central office supply and maintenance.

"It is estimated the total increased annual rentals for the seven projects would be some $407,747.29, of which $174,391.69 would be reimbursement and $233,355.60 the local share. These figures are based on 25-year bond issues and current reimbursement levels."

In other action, board members voted to re-elect members of the various Warren County School District authorities whose terms expire Dec. 31. They are: J. Russell Hanson, chairman; Richard J. Loper, Paul E. Rislan, treasurer, Warren Area Joint School Board Authority and Warren Area High School Authority; Harold Putman, Warren Borough Authority; Ernest K. Orlatt, Central Warren County Authority; Richard Campbell, Elk Township Authority; and Boyd H. Zinger, Pleasant Township Authority. All were re-elected to five-year terms.

The board will hold its annual reorganization meeting Dec. 17.

U.N. Outlaws

Statutes Of Limitations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The General Assembly Tuesday adopted a convention to outlaw statutes of limitations as applied to war crimes and crimes against humanity.

The vote was 58-7, with 36 abstentions. The United States and Britain were among those opposing the measure.

The convention was prompted by the problem of prosecuting those accused of World War II crimes because of expiration of limitation statutes.

Many countries abstained in the vote, or voted against the convention because South Africa's policy of apartheid was included in the definition of crimes against humanity.

Article 1, the key passage in the instrument, says no statutory limitation shall apply to certain crimes regardless of the date of their commission.

Included in this category are war crimes as defined at Nuremberg Aug. 8, 1945, as well as "grave breaches" spelled out in the Geneva Convention of 1949 protecting the victims of war.

Ten countries have to ratify or accede to the convention to bring it into force. It becomes effective on the 19th day after the 10th country ratifies.

There is no deadline for ratification. The convention will not be binding on countries that don't ratify.

DINNER GUEST

This plump tom turkey is representative of a multitude of birds who will be invited to dinner on Thanksgiving...and like most of the humans who join him at the table he won't be in the best of shape when he leaves. Turkey has become the traditional entree on Thanksgiving but the diners at the first Thanksgiving at Plymouth probably ate more clams and fish than turkey. However, that's little consolation to this bird as he heads for the block.

Christian Democrat Leader Asked to Form Government

ROME (AP) — Mariano Rumor, leader of Italy's largest political party, was named Tuesday to form a new center-left government.

The 53-year-old Christian Democrat accepted the bid from President Giuseppe Saragat exactly one week after the opening of a government crisis, precipitated by the sudden resignation of Premier Giovanni Leone.

Best wishes to Bob Rosser of Harrisburg, who will retire from the State Highways Department December 18. As deputy chief engineer for western Pennsylvania, Bob was a frequent visitor to Warren and most helpful in helping us get new roads.

Local artists will be interested to know that water colors and drawings by George Grosz will be on view at Allegheny College from now through December 13. It is an exhibition circulated by The Museum of Modern Art in New York.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sedwick who are the proud parents of a baby girl born Monday in Meshoppen, Pa. Both young people are formerly of Warren, she being the former Helene McClure.

Paul Ross of 132 Lakecrest ave., Lakewood, N.Y., was the lucky winner of a Ski Doo in a recent benefit conducted by the Sugar Grove Volunteer Fire Dept.

Someone was having a little fun the other day. Stanley Mains of 113 Buchanan st., received a post card with a picture of a mother bear and two cubs on the front.

The message said: "This is what I got when I ran into you. Remember? On my left is Sachel. On my right Baggage. Both one year old. Well until we meet again, happy motoring. Drive careful."

It was just about a year ago that Mr. Mains struck a big black bear on Warren's east side.

How's this for Thanksgiving tradition?

James Bradley of Rt. 2 Douglassville went hunting recently for a turkey for his Thanksgiving table as he has done for 20 years. But he came home empty handed.

"I'm a real pilgrim," he said. "The only problem is that this makes an even 20 years that I've come home from a turkey hunt without a turkey."

"I guess it doesn't matter though. 'My family and I are spending the Thanksgiving holiday with relatives anyway.'" procedure of accepting the mandate with "reserve," meaning he will be sworn in as premier only when and if he can tell Saragat he has found a cabinet. Rumor told Saragat he would report "as soon as possible."

Rumor, who has headed the Christian Democrats for the past four years, was expected to succeed in forming Italy's fourth center-left coalition, an alliance with the Socialists and the small Republican party. Both parties already have pledged backing for the Christian Democrat candidate.

If he succeeds in forming a new Cabinet, it could mark a major turning point in Italy's turbulent student and labor situation. The Socialist party, has set the price for its participation as major labor, social and educational reforms.

For the past two weeks, Italy has struggled through daily student unrest, violent labor demonstrations punctuated by bomb explosions and two nationwide strikes.

U.S. government assurances which had been negotiated by Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, the American representative at Paris.

The assurances included: —a pledge that the United States will not recognize any form of government not freely chosen through democratic and legal process by the South Vietnamese people. It said that the imposition of any coalition regime would conflict with this principle.

—a pledge that in the talks with the North Vietnamese, the presence of the NLF, would not be recognized.

—a pledge to operate in the closest cooperation with South Vietnam in the new round of meetings and to consult with allied nations contributing military forces.

The United States has not and will not agree to any four-sided conference, the statement said. It specified that the meeting will have only two sides. But it added that there would be separate U.S. and South Vietnamese delegations on the allied side.

The U.S. statement reaffirmed that there cannot be productive peace talks in Paris in an atmosphere where the "cities are being shelled and the DMZ is being abused."

This was part of the understanding which led to the stopping of the bombing of North Vietnam and the convening of the new Paris meeting, it said.

The U.S. assurances to South Vietnam declared that in the new round of meetings in Paris "the U.S. government will operate in the closest cooperation with the Republic of Vietnam and in continuing consultation with the nations that have contributed military forces to the defense of South Vietnam."

However, U.S. officials said this does not constitute a Saigon veto over U.S. actions at the peace table.

The United States will play the leading role on the allied side on matters in which U.S. military forces have a direct stake. This would include such issues as withdrawal of troops from South Vietnam.

U.S. Fears Russ Know Where Warheads Stored

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are concerned that spies with access to NATO's secrets may have told the Soviet Union where American nuclear weapon warheads are stored in Europe.

These officials are looking to the Turkish interrogation of a principal espionage suspect to show how much damage, if any, has been done to West Europe's defense plans.

An investigation centering chiefly in West Germany has been under way for nearly two months.

But so far, U.S. authorities say, they still don't know for certain whether critical information has reached the Soviets.

At the top of the U.S. worry list is the possibility that the locations of U.S. atomic weapons storage points in Europe may have been revealed.

The warheads may be moved to other hiding places as a precaution.

The United States has about 7,200 tactical nuclear weapons in Western Europe including battlefield missiles with ranges up to about 400 miles, artillery and jet fighter-bomber ammunition.

Whether for U.S. or allied weapons, nuclear warheads are stored at strategic locations under American guard and under strict U.S. control. They would be made with the weapons if and when needed.

U.S. officials regard these tactical nuclear weapons as a substantial deterrent to any Warsaw pact attack on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization area.

Since the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia last summer, NATO has become more alert to the threat from the other side of the Iron Curtain.

Obviously the Soviets would gain significantly if they knew where the nuclear warheads were kept. Their agents could attempt sabotage, and Communist forces could strike at the storage areas early in any conflict.

American authorities also are concerned that technical information on nuclear weapons might have reached the Communists.

Further they are wondering whether detailed data on NATO war planning has been unmasked.

All the implications of apparent espionage are being probed, but American officials acknowledge they do not yet know how much the Soviets have learned.

However, they dispute reports that NATO already has had to reshape its fundamental plans. U.S. sources say the dimensions of the espionage operation are not yet clear, although they are beginning to believe that it is less extensive than at first thought.

A series of apparent suicides this fall suggested to U.S. and German counterintelligence authorities the possibility of a widespread spy ring.

Several of the victims were senior West German officers.

U.S. officials say that to date the investigation has not established any connection among the suicides or any single thread linking them to espionage.

Firemen Fight Dwelling Blaze

JAMESTOWN — A fire Tuesday night in a dwelling located at the rear of the Chadakoin Restaurant, West Eighth st., required the use of five hose companies and one ladder company from the Jamestown Fire Department.

A department spokesman said an investigation into the cause of the fire is underway, but the fire was confined to a kitchen area. The alarm was turned in at 9:30 p.m.

Smoke from the blaze diffused into the Chadakoin Restaurant but apparently had no effect upon the restaurant's patrons. Many patrons continued to enjoy their beverages as if everything was completely normal. No further details on the fire were available at newstime.

TURKEY VISITS SCHOOL

Thanksgiving "came alive" at Youngsville Kindergarten on Monday when the teacher, Mrs. Elizabeth Young, introduced the pre-school children to Tommy Turkey, in full feather and fine fettle. Once he became acquainted, Tommy proved to be a very sociable fellow. He played with strings the children dangled in his cage, kept quiet during a movie but protested noisily when he was left alone in the room. It was all very Thanksgivingish, what with Tommy, and pictures of turkeys and pilgrims on the walls, and even the smell of dried, uncooked turkey in a pot on a hotplate. PS: Tommy went home with Mrs. Young for Thanksgiving dinner. (Photo by Rhodes.)

Jail Rated Progressive, Efficient

The Warren County Jail was rated "progressive and efficient" following a recent inspection by the Bureau of Correction of the State Department of Justice.

The inspector who visited the jail in October noted improvements made since the previous inspection including renovation of a utility sink, installation of new sewer and drain pipes, repair of half of the locking devices in the cellblock and installation of a fire extinguisher near the furnace room.

In a letter to the county commissioners the inspector said the jail was "clean, tidy and in a satisfactory state of repair."

There were four prisoners confined in the jail at the time of the inspection. None of them made complaint when questioned about the treatment they received, the inspector's report stated.

Rex Agnew Named Youngsville Police Chief

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Youngsville Borough Council Tuesday night appointed Rex M. Agnew borough police chief. The appointment was made on the recommendation of the Police Committee headed by Mayor Ernest McGraw.

Agnew, a Youngsville native, has been a borough police officer for 18 years. He succeeds J. E. (Ed) Chappel as chief. Chappel resigned last week after about 25 years service.

POLITICS AS PROFESSION
LUCKNOW, India (AP)—The leader of the rightwing Swatantra party, M. R. Masani, wants politicians to undergo special training before they "are allowed to enter the field." "If training could be imparted to teachers, doctors, engineers and journalists, why not politicians?" says Masani.

Shafer Urges State People To Share 'Our Abundance'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pennsylvanians, urged by their governor to show their gratitude for the good life by sharing their abundance, observe Thanksgiving 1968 Thursday.

Most apparently will observe it in traditional ways, attending football games or parades, or relaxing at home after feasting on turkey.

And for some it will be a day of tragedy on the highway.

Gov. Shafer, in his Thanksgiving proclamation, recalled the misery that exists in the world. He urged the day "be observed by prayerful thanksgiving to God and urge our gratitude be evidenced by sharing our abundance with those in need throughout the world."

In Philadelphia, policemen showed they cared by packing 550 turkey dinner baskets for needy families. Red patrol wagons will serve as delivery trucks for the dinners, which Police Commissioner Frank Rizzo said was a way for police department personnel to show their thanks for the help given by "the citizens of Philadelphia in keeping our city one of peace and security."

In a kind of turnaround, a group of women in West Philadelphia will cook turkey dinner for policemen on duty in Philadelphia's 16th District Thursday.

"By preparing these dinners," said Rizzo, "the women in West Philadelphia will be making Thanksgiving a very special day for the men who serve them."

There was an abundance of turkey and at good prices, according to Robert White, officer in charge of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's dairy and poultry news in Philadelphia.

"From all indications there are ample supplies in all weights of turkeys, and there will be a good demand for them. It should be a very satisfactory season," said White.

Communities Receive State Sewage Grants

Four area communities have received grants from the state for maintenance and operation of sewage treatment plants. Payments were made to Sheffield, Youngsville, Titusville and Kane, according to the State Health Department.

Each received two per cent of the total eligible amount which represents the cost of each project when it was completed.

The Municipal Authority of Sheffield twp. was paid $4,300 (eligible for $214,999.51); Youngsville Borough Sewer Department, $457.38 (eligible for $22,869.12); Borough of Kane, $12,015.58 (eligible for $600,779.09); Titusville Municipal Authority, (eligible for $738,197.72).

Statewide payments totaling $7,845,204 were made to 647 municipalities, schools and institutions for plants completed before Dec. 31, 1967. The two per cent payments are paid on annual installments. "This year's payments represent a record both in the amount of money and the number of municipalities to which grants were made," Dr. Thomas W. Georges Jr., State Secretary of Health, said.

Gunmen Seize Two Cases Full of Jewelry

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Two gunmen robbed a wholesale jeweler of two cases full of jewelry Tuesday and eluded police who made an intensive search of a 13-story downtown building.

The value of the diamond rings and other jewelry taken from Emil Rozinak's office in the Home Savings & Loan Co. Building was not determined. Rozinak said many of the jewels were in his shop for repairs, had been received from other jewelers, and he did not even know who the owners were.

The gunmen put the gems in the cases and fled after handcuffing Rozinak and a repairman.

Rozinak managed to slip out of one handcuff, grabbed a gun and yelled out a window that he had been robbed.

Police, alerted quickly, sealed off the building and made an office-by-office search.

Meanwhile, Rozinak, still carrying his gun, took the freight elevator from his eighth floor office to the street level. This promoted one report that a gunman had fled via the freight elevator and resulted in Rozinak's being collared and detained briefly by police outside the building.

USUALLY ON SUNDAY

NEW DELHI (AP)—More murders are committed in New Delhi on Sundays than any other day. An official study showed 34 per cent of the murders in 1963 — the first year of the survey — were on Sundays.

Football fans wanting to watch a college game will have to turn to the television, since the 1968 Pennsylvania college season is just about wrapped up.

But there will be some traditional high school games for after dinner viewing, including the Mount Carmel-Shamokin game for the southern division championship of the Eastern Conference. Another will be the Northeast-Central High School game in Philadelphia, a rivalry that started in 1896 and the Haverford-Upper Darby game.

In Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, parades featuring bands, marching groups, giant balloons and floats will welcome the Christmas season to Pennsylvania.

After Thanksgiving, there will be only 22 shopping days until Christmas.

In Pittsburgh, 11 floats, 18 giant balloons and 22 bands and marching groups were scheduled to march in the parade sponsored by a downtown department store.

The Philadelphia parade Thursday will be made up of 126 units, largest in its 49-year history. Among them will be 31 bands and marching groups, 75 floats and giant balloons. Deadpan Comic Pat Paulsen will participate in the parade, launching, he says, his 1972 presidential campaign.

The Pennsylvania Bureau of Traffic Safety, reminding motorists that 34 persons died on state roads during the last Thanksgiving period, urged caution.

"Let no driver mar the joy or the spirit of the holiday by bringing a tragedy into his own or the family circles of others at a time of year we give thanks and count our blessings," said Harry H. Brainert, state traffic safety commissioner.

BROWNIES REMEMBER THANKSGIVING

Russell Brownie Troop 641 has prepared a huge box, trimmed to represent a turkey, as the troop contribution to Thanksgiving Day festivities. The box will be loaded with food and presented to a needy family in the Russell Area. Brownies taking part were: Sherry Haggberg, Lisa Rivett, Becky Martin, Julie Himes,

HIGH BIRTH RATE

LISBON (AP)—The annual number of births in Catholic Portugal has been steadily declining in this decade, but the birth rate remains one of the highest in Europe.

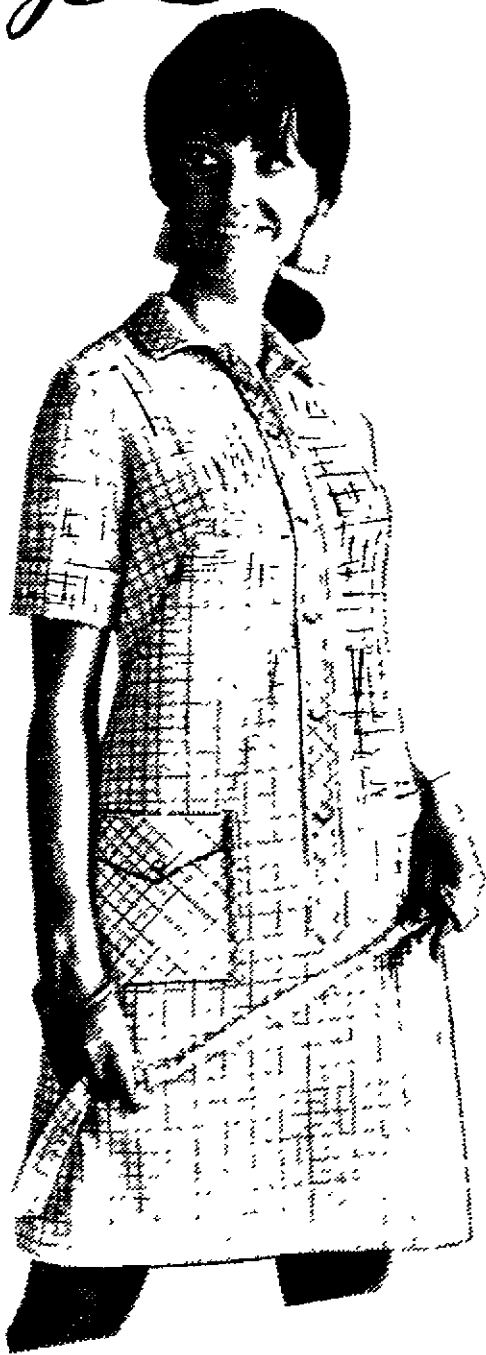

In 1961, there were 217,916 live births in continental Portugal. In 1965, the figure was 210,290. During last year live births dropped to 202,061. That was roughly the figure 20 years ago, when Portugal had 1.2 million fewer inhabitants than the nearly 10 million it has today.

But the birth rate, at 21.4 per thousand, trails in Europe only those of Albania — 34 per thousand — and Ireland — 21.6 per thousand.

Specialists attribute the drop in births to continuing heavy emigration abroad and the rising cost of living.

...and let us GIVE THANKS

This Thanksgiving Day let us remember, as did our

Pilgrim fathers before us, to give thanks for the prosperity

we enjoyed in the past year. We who share in the blessings of a good life should lift our voices in prayerful thanks for the abundance of our festive board, spiritual freedom and boundless opportunities.

We have watched with pride as our friends and family

blossomed... our community prospered in this land we can proudly call our own. Now, when we pause to take stock of our joys... let us not forget ours is a hard-won heritage, one we have worked for, fought for. Let us pledge to reaffirm our faith in this heritage and determine to preserve and cherish it...

Need Low Cost Housing

Low cost housing is in demand in the area and will become a greater problem in Warren if proposed urban renewal projects ever get started in the downtown sector. It is, therefore, important that every effort be made to provide such accommodations.

The local group -- Warren Housing, Inc. -- working toward this goal will have an opportunity to be heard in Harrisburg on December 5 at a meeting called by the State Department of Commerce to hear applicants for funds under the Appalachia Regional Development Act.

The Warren organization presently is engaged in obtaining an analysis of the community's need for a low cost housing development to aid in its application for government funds.

It is important that nothing be put off that will delay any local project. And the efforts of Warren Housing, Inc. should be supported by borough government and the community at large.

Real as Redheaded Nurses

Doctor Sol was a born loser. He was honorable, ethical and sentimental -- in sum, a schmuck. He had an office on Sutton Place. The waiting room was jammed with ornate cagers full of parakeets. The doctor had a duplex. The office was downstairs; he lived one flight up a spiral staircase. His head looked like a pink Easter Egg, although Doctor Sol would have preferred the term Passover to Easter.

The doctor believed that there is a human malady called hypoglycemia. Briefly stated, it is too much sugar in the blood constitutes diabetes (which is hypoglycemia), too little would be hypoglycemia. Doctor Sol made hourly blood sugar tests on thousands of patients and found that many of them had a sensitive and overactive pancreas which was squirting too much natural insulin into the body and cancelling the sugar. Most of these patients felt listless and fatigued between meals. They ate candy bars, pies and ice cream frantically. The sudden increase in sugar gave them energy, but, within an hour or two, they were half dead again.

Doctor Sol couldn't get his confreres in the American Medical Association to listen to him. It was their pontifical judgment that there is no such thing as hypoglycemia. The doctor was mad enough to hop into a cage with the parakeets. Come to think of it, he spent half his time loving people and the other half being mad as a woodpecker in a frozen forest.

Before we became friends, he had married a redheaded nurse and he was so in love that he adopted her 12-year-old son. This was thoughtful. But it became embarrassing when the nurse left Doctor Sol on a sudden morning for a salesman who specialized in electric can openers. As a mark of her esteem, she left Doctor Sol her son, which the courts said he had to support.

The kid was a monster. His clothing and school bills came high. The doctor immersed himself in work. His round face was sad. He read medical tracts which stated that hypoglycemia was a figment of what Doctor Sol called his imagination. Once, he was running blood sugar tests and Consolidated Edison, working on electrical cables in the street below, gave him the wrong voltage for a moment. Doctor Sol swore that it ruined his tests and he sued Consolidated Edison and had to pay court costs.

Life became just one damned thing after another. Some of his patients said: "My family doctor says you're a little cracked, Doc. There is no hypoglycemia." Sol told his patients that they would have to stop using coffee and cola drinks, because the caffeine fired extra torpedoes of sugar in the blood stream. He wanted to control it so that the glucose level would be fairly constant between 65 and 100 milligrams per 100 cc. of blood. He was a top-flight internist, a first-class laboratory man, but he hired another redheaded nurse. "It's a coincidence that she looks like Janet," he told me. "Just a coincidence." Perhaps. It was hardly a coincidence that he married her within six months. I was invited upstairs for dinner and we chatted about better days as Mrs. Sol made an appetizing dinner.

"A single man is half a man," Sol said. I shrugged. "I didn't say a word," I said. He grinned. "Yeah, but I know what you're thinking." After dinner, we talked a little about children and she showed me a wallet photo of her eight-year-old son. He too was a redhead. I looked around at the walls and I could see handwriting on all of them.

A year later, Doctor Sol went to court and adopted the little boy. In fact, he was renamed Sol. The physician was still trying to convince the world that there is an illness, a debilitating one, called hypoglycemia and that it can be corrected by retraining the pancreas, the sugar thermostat of the body.

He achieved great results treating patients. Many who had been treated for ulcers, heart disease, emotional illness and migraine were victims of hypoglycemia. One sudden morning, Sol found he had no nurse. No wife either. She had walked out without a fare-three-well-a-parakeet who had tired of the cage. Doctor Sol hurried to his lawyer and said: "How about that little kid? I'm already stuck with another one." The lawyer said that the child was his, to cherish and care for until adulthood.

Doctor Sol scrambled back to his office and drank a concoction in his laboratory. He was dead, but hardly forgotten. His confreres clicked their tongues and said: "Two brats? That's too much." Still, wherever Sol is, he must be smiling because this month's issue of Today's Health, published by none other than the American Medical Association, features an article on hypoglycemia. It's as real as redheaded nurses...

Nuts! Think OLD

If you are under 30, you get all the headlines in the marketplace today. "Think Young!" is the battle cry of the marketing experts; tap that $18-$20 billion teenage bonanza is their obsession.

"Nuts," say I, from the vantage point of the affluent over-30. "Mirage?" adds Fabian Linden, chief consumer economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, and Linden salves my ego by adding:

"While our youth are the ones getting all the headlines, the 'hard core' of demand is in the purses and pockets of the middle-aged -- and it will stay there, even in areas generally associated with youth." To back it up:

+Teenagers may have an income of $18-$20 billion a year but that's a tiny fraction of the nation's total spending power. Only 6.1 per cent of all U.S. households are now headed by a person under 25 and these households account for only 4.7 per cent of the spending in our country.

+By 1975, the entire 18-34 year age group, will account for only about 29 per cent of all spending in the U.S., while the vast bulk of 71 per cent will be spent by the over-34 age category.

+The under-35 age bracket is responsible for only about one-third of all furniture and appliance buying. Out of some 100,000,000 cars on U.S. roads, teenagers today own an estimated mere 1,500,000. A large proportion of the auto buying by teenagers and those in their 20s is for used cars, involving relatively small sums of money.

+An income -- and thus, a spending power -- in the $10,000-and-up range is rare in the under-25 age bracket. But nearly one in three in the 45-54 age bracket enjoys this amount of earnings and thus is a member of the high-middle income bracket.

+The youth market will grow the fastest between now and 1975, if you measure this simply by the fact that the number of households headed by an individual under age 25 is slated to soar 60 per cent in these next few years. BUT, the number of households involved will represent only 8 per cent of all U.S. households and these will do only 7 per cent of the nation's total spending.

+The developing surge in homebuilding as the 1970s unfold will NOT be the direct result of home buying by the war babies of the 1940s as they move into their marrying and childbearing years. The young married and young parents rent the roofs over their heads. They do not buy until they have been married for several years; only one in 10 U.S. households in the under-25 age bracket owns a home.

+Nor will this younger group be the key force behind the expected continued upswing in auto buying, installment borrowing, recreation spending. The key consumers in all these areas will be the over-25s. And the dominant consumers will be the over-35s, because of their huge numbers and their spending money.

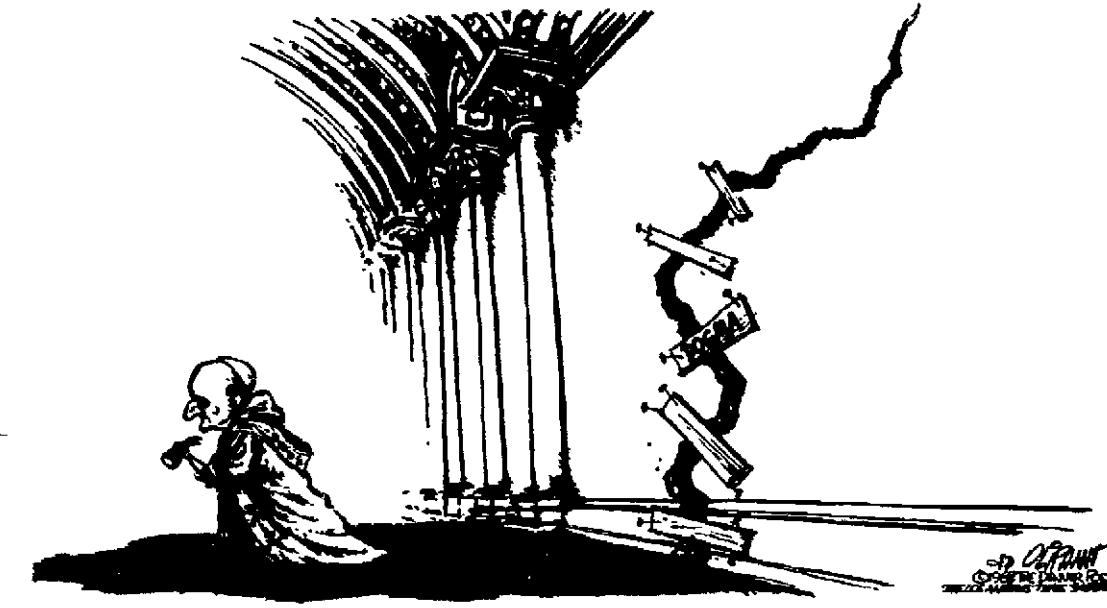

Enough. The point surely is made with this abundance of statistics to prove, in Linden's words, "that our youth have been vastly overrated as a market."

The kids do set trends, as they always have, and then the older folks -- with the cash at hand -- either approve or disapprove and make or break the movement.

Of course, "Think Young!" you marketing men. But then turn your full attention to those of us who are old enough to buy young.

... And we'll meet later at the TV studios to study the films of the riot highlights and see where we went wrong!"

It's Goodbye, Not Hello

WASHINGTON -- The time has come for the President of the United States to start saying goodbye. Since the White House staff is large, LBJ has arranged to bid goodbye on the installment plan. To bring in the entire staff at one time would completely disrupt the operations of the White House.

Among the first who were called in for a presidential farewell were the White House telephone operators. Since Lyndon Johnson is without doubt the most telephoning President in history, he had an especially warm feeling for them.

When the light flashes on the White House switchboard indicating that the President has picked up his phone, the operators jump. But lately someone else has been using the President's private phone. Already picking up the LBJ habit, grandson Lyn loves to get hold of the telephone keyboard in his grandfather's office and punch it at random.

No other person in the White House -- in fact no other person in the United States -- would dare manipulate the telephone keyboard of the President. However, little Lyn, not yet aware of his special prerogative, has a wonderful time punching it.

The President, in saying goodbye to the telephone operators, thanked them for their forbearance with Lyn. He also thanked them for handling his telephone calls at all hours of the night and early morning. He has had the habit of getting up at 3 a.m. to check on developments in South Vietnam. And he has called members of his staff as early as 6 a.m. (even earlier on rare occasions).

"I don't know of anyone who could have handled my calls more efficiently and more patiently than you have," the President told the White House operators. "I shall miss you."

The White House operators, headed by Beverly Cole, said they would miss him too.

Some Congressmen who were extolling the virtues of America in the recent campaign seemed in an awful hurry to get away from America after the election. They are back at their custom of junketing hither and yon at taxpayer expense.

One of the plusher trips of all is taking five Republican and three Democratic members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee to the Far East.

They will visit Japan, Korea, China, Singapore, Malaysia, Indonesia, Australia, and -- you guessed it -- Hong Kong, that fabulous cut-rate shopping bazaar, which is the biggest stop for all visiting politicians in that part of the world. Those making the trip are Democrats Edward Roybal of California and L. H. Fountain of North Carolina, and Republicans Ross Adair, Ind., Peter Frelinghuysen, N.J., William Broomfield, Mich., Irving Whalley, Pa., and E.Y. Berry, S.D. Democrat John Tunney of California will accompany the group to Japan only. They departed the U.S. on Nov. 11 and will be gone for four weeks.

The Foreign Affairs Committee explains that the junket will provide the voyagers an opportunity to assess "rapidly moving and far-reaching events" in the Far East. However, the committee fails to add that it also will provide them with a deluxe vacation most taxpayers could not afford.

Rodney E. Leonard, boss of the Agriculture Department's consumer and Marketing Service, is tussling with one of the toughest problems he has ever faced -- whether to reform that great American institution, the hotdog.

The poultry industry wants to put about 25 per cent chicken meat in it without changing the "frank" label. The beef cattle producers, like a herd of their own steers, are bellowing their opposition. The consumers will get their say at public hearings soon in Washington, Chicago, Denver and Atlanta.

It's a question that affects the whole nation, for more than 8.5 billion hotdogs are consumed annually in the U.S. Under present regulations, meats can be sold in interstate commerce as "frankfurters," "wieners," or "bologna" if they consist of beef, pork, mutton, goat meat, fat and a maximum of 3 1/2 per cent cereal or filler.

If chicken is included, the label -- not just the fine print -- must read "franks and chicken" or "chicken and hotdogs." As a result, poultry producers have been yelling discrimination for years.

Beef packers themselves are somewhat concerned because of the declining sources of protein for hotdogs. Slaughtered dairy cattle is now a principal source, because the meat is less tender than beef cattle and more adaptable to franks. But dairy herds have been declining steadily.

Taste panel tests show that up to 25 per cent poultry meat can be put into a frankfurter with no discernible difference in taste. Leonard assured this column. "But over that amount causes a different taste characteristic in the product."

The whole hotdog controversy, however, will probably allow the verdict of President Nixon, who is reliably reported to favor meatloaf and enchiladas.

The Invisible Bear

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
PRAGUE -- There is an eerie feeling in Prague 13 weeks after the Soviet invasion. Nothing has been absolutely lost, but the fear of the unknown and the unseen is very real.

What is particularly eerie about this is that the Red Army is practically invisible in the capital. Even flying in here from Moscow, not an identifiable Soviet official in sight; nothing but a plane full of beefy characters wolfing cuts and beer for breakfast.

It is almost easy to forget the main thing that happened here, namely, that the Soviet Union invaded this allied country and kidnapped its government. Prague is still a museum. It is full of music and spectacular spires and blinking lights on the great hill above the Vltava. It has been a capital here for a thousand years, and many of its ancient buildings are being redecorated, as if in celebration of some glorious liberation, and you have to hunt the city before you find a couple of Soviet weapons carriers in an obscure square in the old town.

But you have a feeling that a mischievous boy setting off a string of firecrackers down any dark alley would suddenly produce a forest of Soviet guns on every rooftop in sight.

This is nonsense, of course, but it says something about the intimidating influence of the Soviet Union upon its smaller neighbors -- and the anxiety about the invisible and unknown here is not nonsense. The Czechs have awakened and angered the bear and he is still prowling somewhere out of sight. What worries the Czechs and a lot of other people since the invasion is that the Soviet leaders now seem incalculable, and it is this uncertainty about what will happen next that is causing the uneasiness in Prague.

The contrast and contradictions here are startling. The newspapers and news broadcasts come in regularly from the West without official interference. The 10th Century Prague cathedral, standing high above the river in what must be the most beautiful silhouette of any capital of northern Europe, was alive with people of every age last Sunday and full of the glorious hymns of a more believing age.

The Western correspondents send their copy abroad uncensored and sit around in the snafu of the Aleron Hotel trading rumors about what will happen next, and a lovely old man drives the Aleron elevator and has plastered its walls with pictures of Tomas Masaryk and Alexander Dubcek and the other Czech freedom fighters.

Still, a visitor is told that it is not wise to engage in critical political talk, even in a private car, unless the radio is going. And the correspondents, while uncensored, are not always unaccompanied on their private journeys around the city.

The Prague papers are neither quite free nor quite enslaved. A publication that was printed on a government press was suspended the other day and got an apology when it threatened to take the government into court. So there are still a lot of brave men around and they are proving that all is certainly not lost.

But others have got into trouble for quoting Lenin against his present successors in the Kremlin, and a lot of them seem to sit around wondering what the next limitation of their freedom will be and who will give the order for the Russians, and who will pass the order and convey it to the press with the sanction or acquiescence of the present Czech leaders.

Even certain words are important to this new relationship between the Slavic allies. The Russians did not "invade" Czechoslovakia, and this is certainly not an "occupation."

They are here, according to the approved hypocrisy, providing "fraternal aid," and the man who directs this "fraternal aid" is Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, who is even more invisible than the Red Army.

Sometimes he is here, it is said, and sometimes he is in Moscow. The word is that he is more intelligent and reasonable than most, whatever that means. His job is to bring the Czechs back into Moscow's orbit with the least possible trouble. Whom he talks to and what he says is not known, but his line apparently is that the Czechs were naughty children who, unfortunately, have to be punished for their own good.

With this invisible advice, backed by the invisible Red Army, Prague is naturally full of rumors, most of them bad. But it goes on playing its music and fixing up the Charles Bridge, which is sagging a little after 600 years. The Czechs could do with some "fraternal aid" on this project, but the Russians apparently have other things in mind.

MASON DENISON

GOP's Critical Year

HARRISBURG -- Pennsylvania Republicans as they round out their second year in office under the banner of the Shafer Administration unquestionably can mark up 1968 as their critical year.

Most certainly it has been a year of decision, if there ever was one insofar as elephant riders of the Keystone State were concerned.

But in actuality it has been far more than just that. Mr. Shafer for example has two more years of his tenure to serve.

Or did I say, and this has been the case quite religiously in the past, the remaining two years of a gubernatorial reign have been classified as "the declining years."

Historically a chief executive in the last half of his tenure is referred to as a "lame duck" (in every sense of the phrase).

Inasmuch as he cannot succeed himself (under terms of Pennsylvania's "modernized" Constitution the next Governor may), administrative programs as such have largely fallen by the wayside in the past. Upon reaching the halfway point a chief executive almost automatically is classified as a "has-been," one whose potential "power" diminishes with each passing month to the point of virtually no return by the time he is through with his gubernatorial office.

Up to the advent of the Democratic Leader Administration in 1954, Pennsylvania Republicans who rather routinely and without debate controlled the legislative branch, elected fiscal offices and the executive branch, passed off one Governor after another either to pasture or the U.S. Senate -- GOP thoughts turning in one of those directions immediately after passing the mid-point in an administration.

An interesting switch though, or perhaps transition would be the better word, is in the offing during the latter half of the administration of Governor Shafer.

The Democratic sweep of this state on November 5 including the bundling into office of the two state fiscal offices of State Auditor General and State Treasurer -- is having much to do with it.

But of greater importance by far is the absolute "vetopower" Democrats will now enjoy in the legislative branch when it convenes in January for the 1969 session -- this by virtue of the single stroke of winning control of the House of Representatives.

All of this poses a complex problem for Mr. Shafer, who now is faced with two choices: (1) -- simply lie down and coast through the remaining two years of his gubernatorial sojourn (as many of his predecessors before him have done), or (2) -- slug it out with his political adversaries and come up with the best record possible.

In the opinion of this column, Mr. Shafer will choose the latter course.

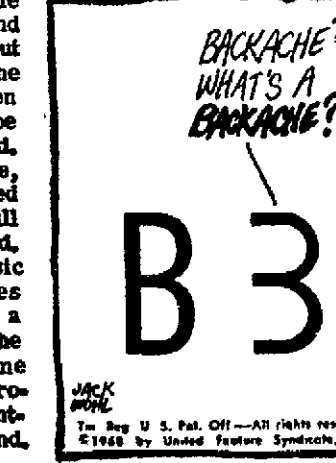

The next two years may indeed collar him historically and routinely as a lame duck chief executive but unless we have misjudged him, he'll emerge at least as a "fighting lame duck."

This is not to say he will indulge in daily rant and rave sessions with the opposition legislative blocs, particularly in the House, but rather will use every formidable strategy at his command to work through the administration point of view.

It may not be successful but it is difficult to imagine lame duck Raymond Philip Shafer literally throwing in the towel in the face of the challenge confronting him in the next two years.

It is true he may be clobbered -- soundly -- in his effort, but then again this is nothing new to His Excellency. The past two years have been some what despairing years in many respects for Mr. Shafer, whether he admits it or not, and these were years when both legislative houses were dominated by his own party. Beginning in 1969 he'll only have one horse to work with.

Fineman Named to Preside As Speaker of the House

HARRISBURG (AP) — House Minority Leader Herbert Fineman of Philadelphia was elected speaker of the House Tuesday by the Democrats.

Fineman, 47, was nominated to the $21,000-a-year post as House and Senate Democrats gathered here to select their leaders for the next two years. The nomination was tantamount to election since Democrats will control the House.

Rep. K. Leroy Irvis, 48, of Pittsburgh was elected majority leader, becoming the first Negro to hold such a high legislative post. Irvis for the past two years has served as minority whip.

Senate Democrats, who will retain their minority status in 1969-70, re-elected their present leaders, headed by Sen. Ernest P. Kline, Beaver.

Home in bed with influenza, Fineman was unable to attend his party caucus, but he issued a statement in which he indirectly praised fellow lawmakers for refusing to bow to outside pressures.

SEC Punishes Merrill Lynch For Disclosures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission Tuesday ordered curbs on two offices of the Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith brokerage firm for what the SEC charged was an inside information case.

The SEC said that Merrill Lynch, the country's largest securities firm, unlawfully disclosed inside financial information to selected investors.

Merrill Lynch denied the accusations of wrongdoing but consented to the agency's findings and sanctions in order to settle its part in a case stemming from transactions in shares of the Douglas Aircraft Co. in 1966.

The SEC closed down Merrill Lynch's New York institutional sales office for 21 days starting Dec. 5 and its West Coast underwriting office for 15 days beginning Dec. 11. It also censured or ordered suspended from employment without pay for varying periods 10 executives or salesmen of the big brokerage house.

The agency said the information Douglas entrusted to Merrill Lynch, as prospective managing underwriter of a $75 million debenture issue, "was of such importance that it could be expected to affect the judgment of investors whether to buy, sell, or hold Douglas stock. If generally known, such information could be expected to affect materially the market price of the stock."

No Douglas official was charged with any wrongdoing.

Russell Firemen Hold Meeting

The regular meeting of the Russell Volunteer Fire Department was held Nov. 20 with 17 members present. Thank you letter was read from kindergarten class of Russell for fire truck demonstration during fire prevention week. There were no fires reported in the past month. Ambulance committee reported 10 runs. One application for membership was received. A committee, Ernest Hagburg, Dale English and Don Merkle, were appointed to obtain prices on radio for the new truck.

Merle Sterling reported on the county meeting held at Sheffield. Next county meeting to be held in January at Scandia. Northwestern Pennsylvania Firemen Association meeting was held in Rocky Grove on Nov. 9. Don Merkle and Elmer Roberts attended, and reported on it.

Refreshments were served by Charles Gray, Tom Lundberg and Elmer Roberts. To conclude the meeting, Andy Marfink showed a movie "Design for Disaster".

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hanner were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mortenson of Waterford, and Mrs. Mable Clark and Mrs. Edna Schumaker of Erie.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Faust were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Faust and family of Jamestown. Their grandson Sp. 4 Ernest K. Faust has returned home from Vietnam.

Dorothy Tiltotson of Warren was Sunday visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Bernarr Whiteley. The Whiteleys and Dorothy Tiltotson later called on Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Whiteley and girls of Bear Lake.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. James Durlin and Donna were Carol Durlin and Dale Bodie of Spring Creek. Dale was home on furlough. Also visiting were Mrs. E. L. Pilling near Youngsville, Mrs. Everett Wiler and son Blain of Pittsfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hopkins of Falconer.

"Today was more than just a victory for named individuals — today's action was a victory for Democratic legislators," Fineman said. "Today the Democratic House caucus matured and came of age."

The selection of Fineman as speaker-designate was seen as a political setback to Philadelphia Mayor James H. J. Tate, who had supported the candidacy of Rep. Harry R. J. Comer, the senior member of the city's House delegation.

Comer, lacking substantial support from Allegheny County and other areas, withdrew from the race shortly before the House Democratic caucus, leaving Fineman with no opposition.

In addition to Irvis, House Democrats elected:

— Rep. James F. Prendergast, Northampton, majority whip.

— Rep. Harry A. Englehart Jr., Cambria, caucus chairman, succeeding Prendergast.

— Rep. Joseph G. Wago, Lackawanna, re-elected caucus secretary.

House Democrats picked Vincent F. Scarcelll, a former Philadelphia legislator, as their choice for the $20,000-a-year staff job of chief clerk. Scarcelll, defeated two years ago, failed in a bid to regain his seat in November.

Both Fineman and Scarcelll must be elected by the entire House, which next year likely will have 107 Democrats and 95 Republicans with one vacant seat. Therefore, Democrats likely will dictate the choice in both instances.

Fineman would succeed Rep. Kenneth B. Lee, R-Sullivan, as speaker, and Scarcelll would replace former Rep. Adam T. Bower of Northumberland County as chief clerk.

In addition to Kline, Senate Democrats re-elected Sens. William J. Lane, Washington, minority whip; Benjamin R. Donohew, caucus chairman; William G. Sesler, caucus secretary; Thomas J. Kalman, Fayette, policy chairman, and Martin L. Murray, minority appropriations chairman.

By winning a majority of the seats in the House, the Democrats will have virtual veto power over Gov. Shafer's legislative program during the next two years.

Irvis said, however, Democrats would seek to cooperate with the governor, noting that they had provided more votes than Republicans for the administration's civil rights legislation and the proposal calling the Constitutional Convention.

"We have helped the governor with liberal measures in his program that the Republicans were reluctant to back," Irvis said. "What we have to do for the governor is what his own party has refused to do."

Driver Strikes Two Parked Cars

Warren Police charged Kenneth R. Fowler, 64, of 14 Oak st., with driving under the influence Monday afternoon after the auto Fowler was driving struck two parked cars on Pennsylvania ave. W.

Police said the Fowler car hit parked cars owned by John Wester, 36, of 305 North Main st., and Edwin Lyle Spittler, 41, of RD2, Russell, about 5:30 p.m. Monday. The accident occurred in the 1000 block of Pennsylvania ave. W., about 45 feet west of Chestnut street.

Damage was estimated at $750 to the Fowler car, $450 to the Spittler auto and $375 to the Wester car. Police said Fowler was driving east on Pennsylvania ave. when the accident happened. Fowler was not reported injured. The parked cars were unoccupied at the time of the accident.

No More Change For Bus Riders

DETROIT (AP) — Officials of Detroit's city-owned bus system announced today that because of an increase in robberies of bus drivers, the drivers will no longer carry cash to make change for passengers.

The exact fare collection plan — called "Ready Fare" — will go into effect Nov. 30.

"The DSR has had to take action to halt growing crime involving our drivers," said Robert E. Toohy, bus system general manager. "In 1966, 11 drivers were robbed. The figure went to 48 in 1967."

"So far in 1968 over 72 drivers have been robbed."

Drivers will no longer carry any cash or tickets. They will not have a key to the fare box. Passengers boarding must present the driver with the exact 30-cent fare or a ticket, which sells at seven for $2.00.

Fumes Kill Two

STUEBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Carbon monoxide fumes in a parked car apparently killed a Wintersville boy and girl early Tuesday.

The bodies of Donald T. Laughery, 19, and Barbara Ann Reninger, 20, were found in the car parked outside the home where Miss Reninger lived with an aunt and uncle. The motor was still running when they were found.

8th Death from Asian Flu Reported at Home for Aged

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The eighth death from the Hong Kong strain of Asian influenza at Riverview Home for the Aged was reported Tuesday by the institution's medical director.

"There have been eight deaths in which the Hong Kong virus is considered a contributing factor," Dr. Christopher M. Papa, the medical director, said.

"Eight other deaths at Riverview this month are not considered by us, nor by city, state or federal public health officials, to have any connection with flu."

Dr. Alfred S. Bogucki, chief of epidemiology in the City Health Department, said, meanwhile, no other deaths in the city have been attributed to Hong Kong flu.

He said, however, flu is not a reportable disease, and is not always mentioned in a death certificate of a person who has been gravely ill for some time.

Thus, Dr. Bogucki said, "excess deaths" are used as a unit of measurement.

The death of a Philadelphia woman in her 50s was reported in a suburban hospital. Listed as a victim of pneumonia, cultures from her lungs later revealed the Hong Kong virus.

Dr. Bogucki said Hong Kong flu is known to be present in other institutions, including University of Pennsylvania Graduate Hospital, Philadelphia State Hospital (Hyberry) and Ingalls House, a home for incurables.

He said the medical directors of three colleges and several industrial firms have reported a rise in complaints of sore throats, coughing, sore muscles and other symptoms of flu.

But the increase is only slightly greater than usually reported at this time of the year, he said. Without laboratory confirmation, Dr. Bogucki said, it's impossible to tell whether the illness is influenza or some other respiratory disorder.

Dr. James E. Prier, director of the State Health Department Laboratory where the virus identification studies are done, said Tuesday 46 isolations of influenza virus have been made, but that some await additional tests to determine whether they are the Hong Kong strain.

The Hong Kong strain has been identified among students at Temple University and the University of Pennsylvania on a "spotty" basis, Dr. Prier said. City Health officials have not labeled the outbreak an epidemic, claiming that many complaints may simply reflect "colds."

'THE DAY JFK WAS SHOT'

Chapter Three

(PRECEDE) The Warren Times Mirror and Observer continues today exclusive serialization of the sensational new book the Kennedys asked Jim Bishop NOT to write, the book that William Manchester COULD NOT write. Bishop had talked to President and Mrs. Kennedy in the White House a few weeks before the assassination. He obtained from President Johnson the only interview Mr. Johnson has given containing his vivid recollection of the assassination and the events following. His dramatic minute by minute account, with heretofore undivulged facts from eyewitnesses, continues through 30 chaotic minutes between President Kennedy's death and President Johnson's swearing in.

CHAPTER THREE
12:30 P.M.: President Kennedy's death remained a secret to all except a select few, such as Jerry Behn, Secret Service man in the White House fifteen hundred miles away. It was not known to Lyndon Johnson, thirty-five feet away.

A few minutes before, Kenneth O'Donnell had peered inside the cubicle in which Lyndon Johnson and Mrs. Johnson stayed on orders of the Secret Service, and said: "It looks bad. Perhaps fatal. I'll keep you informed." O'Donnell went back to Agent Clint Hill. "Order a casket," he whispered. "Find some place nearby."

Steve Landrigan of the hospital staff gave Hill the name of a nearby undertaker, Vernon Oneal was telephoned: "This is the Secret Service calling from Parkland Hospital. Put the best casket you have in a coach and get it here quickly. Mr. Oneal started to say he had a bronze casket for $3,900, but he was talking to a dead phone.

Outside Trauma One, O'Donnell, the Secret Service, and Mrs. Kennedy conferred. Malcolm Kilduff was assigned to announce the death, and asked what was the exact time. Mrs. Kennedy wanted this to come after the priest had given her husband conditional absolution. Dr. Malcolm Perry was telephoned and asked if 1 p.m. would be all right. Yes, the death certificate would so state. An agent ordered the hospital administrator: "Don't let anybody know what time the President died. Securing."

Word went from Jerry Behn's office at the White House to Secret Service Headquarters to Robert F. Kennedy before another phone rang and J. Edgar Hoover informed the Attorney General that the President was "in critical condition." Robert Kennedy said: "You may be interested to know that my brother is dead." Then he called his brother Ted and asked him to break the news to "mother and our sisters." It could not be told to the father: Joseph P. Kennedy was convalescing from an extensive cerebral hemorrhage.

When Malcolm Kilduff was admitted to the hideaway, Mr. Johnson was sitting on an ambulance cart, his legs dangling. Kilduff swallowed hard and said: "Mr. President. . ." the tall Texan brought his head up sharply; Mrs. Johnson turned as she was about to sit, and held a hand against her mouth. This was the first time Lyndon Baines Johnson had been so addressed, the first time he KNEW that he was the thirty-sixth President of the United States.

"Mr. President," Kilduff began again, "I have to announce the death of President Kennedy to the press. Is it all right with you?" Johnson hopped off the cart and jiggled a hand in his trouser pocket. "No, Mac," he said. "I think we had better get out of here and get back to the plane before you announce it. We don't know whether this is a worldwide conspiracy." Mr. Johnson said, quoting Emory Roberts and Clinton Hill, "whether they are after me as they were after President Kennedy."

Showing shock, Kilduff thanked the President and went back to discuss the matter with Roy Kellerman. Kellerman said he would feel better if they flew Mr. Johnson at once to the White House, where he could be given the utmost protection. Air Force One was a sealed edifice with wings. It had brand-new highly sophisticated communications equipment, some of which was directly related to the Bagnam and his nuclear-kickoff "football." Air Force Two, on which the Vice President had arrived, did not have this equipment.

The President asked Kenny O'Donnell, "How about Mrs. Kennedy?" O'Donnell responded, "She will not leave the hospital without the President." Mrs. Johnson nodded approvingly when her husband said that he would not go back without Mrs. Kennedy and the body of her husband. O'Donnell excused himself and left. He wanted to get Mrs. Kennedy away from Trauma One before the casket arrived.

The Secret Service was, to a man, unsentimental. They advised Johnson to get aboard Air Force One at once and to take off for Washington. Johnson was shocked. He asked where Mrs. Kennedy and the casket would go. "Air Force Two," they said.

If the oath of office had occurred to the new President, he did not mention it, for the same reason he would not depart alone on Air Force One — it would be like a precipitous power grab. The Constitution of the United States is explicit: "Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation. . ."

Agent Lem Johns went out to requisition unmarked automobiles for the movement to Love Field, two miles away. The new President did not want to have his wife risk her life with him, so he ordered her to ride in another vehicle.

When the cars were ready the party went out at top walking speed. To keep up, Mrs. Johnson had to run between Secret Service agents who were fanning out ahead, with some walking backward. The President jumped into the back seat of the lead car, which had Chief of Police Jesse Curry as driver, and slouched as low as a big man can. Youngblood was beside him. Mrs. Johnson was shoved into the second car, another group into the third. Malcolm Kilduff hurried back to make arrangements for the death announcement.

Cars of the curious were parked askew all over the hospital grounds, and the three automobiles followed each other over sidewalks, open fields, to Harry Hines Boulevard.

Vernon Oneal and two assistants rolled the four hundred-pound casket on a carriage down corridors to Trauma One. Mrs. Kennedy did not whimper. She studied the gleaming bronze slides, handles, and convex lid and didn't flinch.

With the brains of the President still oozing from the massive hole in his head, nurse Hutton had lifted the body by the neck, and wrapped sheets around it. A plastic mattress cover was placed in the casket, so that the edges hung over the sides. Then the nude body of the President, covered with other sheets, was lifted inside. The plastic was folded over him and the lid was closed.

When Lyndon Johnson got aboard Air Force One, a TV set was the first sound he heard inside. The President shh'd everyone, to hear anything new about the assassination. A commentator said Mr. Kennedy had been pronounced dead; the shots came apparently from a schoolbook building; the police had clues to the assassin and were looking for a suspect; Vice President Johnson had left Parkland Hospital but no one knew his whereabouts. The President left the television set to instruct stewards to hold the private bedroom for Mrs. Kennedy's use. However, Mr. Johnson quickly discovered there was no other place from which to telephone privately and he signaled the communications shack he would be using the bedroom phone. He wanted to convey his sympathies to Robert Kennedy; he also wanted to ask the Attorney General for a legal opinion on when to take the oath of office as President.

When news of the death had been flashed, the press demanded details. They asked the Parkland Hospital doctors who had attended the President to be summoned. With four of the doctors facing them from the stage of the nurses' classroom, a hundred journalists with no time for tact fired questions. It was agreed that they would be answered by Dr. Kemp Clark and Dr. Malcolm Perry. Neither had experience in these matters; neither had turned the body of the President over to examine it for wounds; neither had autopsy experience.

(The doctors were to complain bitterly that they were misquoted or quoted out of context. In truth, they were incompetent to discuss the wounds because they had no knowledge of the crime, the scene of it, the trajectory of projectiles, or whether wounds could be called entrance or exit. They could have drawn up a preliminary draft of treatment and given it to Dr. George Burkley, the President's physician. Burkley could not discuss the President's wounds with competence at the Bethesda autopsy.)

Outside of Trauma One, Roy Kellerman waited with the death certificate. A stranger approached Kellerman, introduced himself as Dr. Earl Rose, and said, "There has been a homicide. We will take the body for an autopsy." At this moment, Dr. Burkley approached, and Kellerman told him, "Doctor, this man is from some health unit. Town. He tells me we can't remove this body." Burkley was instantly enraged. He shouted: "We are removing it!"

Rose shook his head negatively. "This happened in Dallas County," he said. "Under the law, an autopsy must be performed." The shouting multiplied, with Kenny O'Donnell and Larry O'Brien joining in.

Rose went to telephone, and soon produced a judge, Theron Ward. Roy Kellerman appealed meekly, "Your Honor, we're asking for a waiver here because —" Judge Ward said sadly, "I can't help you out." "You can't break the chain of evidence," Dr. Rose repeated with finality. "The autopsy will be performed here." "All right," said Kellerman. Out of the side of his eye, he had seen the door of Trauma One open, the casket being pushed into the corridor.

The medical examiner saw it. Jumped ahead of it, standing in the way, shouting: "We can't release it! A violent death requires a post-mortem!" A policeman wearing a helmet and a revolver now stood with Rose and Judge Ward. The policeman said, "These people say you can't go."

Secret Service men began to form in front of the casket and down the slides. The ultimatum had been rejected. William Greer, with the bags containing the President's clothing, walked through the cop and medical examiner. Dr. Rose stood his ground. So did the policeman. It seemed as though they would be run over by a casket.

Kellerman ran back and beckoned David Powers to bring Mrs. Kennedy out. She saw the casket ahead, watched it break bluntly through the blockers, and trotted along.

Kenny O'Donnell was not certain that they were going to be able to steal the body of the President, and urged Vernon Oneal to hurry. The mortician asked if they were going to the mortuary. Secret Service men said yes! At the emergency overhang Roy Kellerman ordered Agent Andy Berger to take the wheel of the ambulance. Oneal wanted to know why he was not going to drive his hearse, and was told to stand aside. Mrs. Kennedy insisted on being in the back "beside my husband." Doctor Burkley helped her in. Clint Hill joined them and secured the door. Roy Kellerman ran to tell O'Donnell and O'Brien to take the next car and, privately, head for Love Field. He got on the radio to tell agents at Love Field to let an ambulance and one following car through the fence, then lock up the place. Colonel Swindal was to be ready to take off at once.

Then President Johnson received a phone call from Assistant Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach with the wording of the oath of office to be typed by a secretary. The President happened to look at the TV and hear an announcement that the Dallas Police Department had just arrested the suspected assassin.

Mr. Johnson thought of Federal Judge Sarah Hughes, a Kennedy appointee, got her on the phone, explained the situation, and offered to send Secret Service agents for her. The judge declined the escort, and promised to be there in ten minutes.

An ambulance with red blinker entered the airport, followed by two cars, all at high speed. A third car was stopped short of the fence by the lawmen. Vernon Oneal got out to protest. It was his ambulance. The President was in an Oneal casket. The Secret Service men told him the ambulance would be returned. (Oneal was to send bills for $3900 to the family and eventually receive a government agency check for $3400.) A rear door of Air Force One opened for Secret Service men to lift the casket inside.

All the Kennedy people were taking places on the aircraft they had arrived on. Larry O'Brien looked up to see the President and Mrs. Johnson coming down the aisle from the private stateroom. He was flabbergasted. When the Johnsons moved over to the breakfast nook, Mrs. Kennedy looked up and emerged from her reverie. There can be no doubt that she was surprised to see them aboard this aircraft, not number two. It is understandable if she felt resentful, because the trip home to Washington would normally be a "wake," a private mourning.

But she took Mrs. Johnson's hand in hers. "Oh, Lady Bird," she said. "It's good that we're always liked you two so much."

Mrs. Johnson began to weep again. "Oh, Mrs. Kennedy," she said. "You know we never even wanted to be Vice President and now, dear God, it's come to this."

Johnson sent Youngblood for Kilduff. "Do we have to have the press in here?" he said. Kilduff had a press pool aboard; Merriman Smith and Charles Roberts. "Yes, Mr. President. Also Captain Stoughton should make pictures."

The President summoned O'Donnell and O'Brien. "I talked to Bobby and Katzenbach," Johnson said. "They think I should be sworn in right here. Judge Hughes should be here any minute." They watched Cecil Stoughton fixing up his cameras in the stateroom. "I would like you fellows to stay, to stand shoulder to shoulder with me," Johnson said. The Kennedy assistants did not commit themselves.

When Judge Sarah Hughes was taken into Air Force One, the President grasped her hand and said, "Thank you for coming, Judge. We'll be ready in a minute." He told Larry O'Brien someone should ask Mrs. Kennedy if she would stand beside him during the ceremony. The President said he would also need a Bible.

Mrs. Kennedy was inside a lavatory, alone. Whether she knew what was expected of her and was trying to avoid it, or whether the depression of spirit led to nausea, is uncertain. O'Brien asked Evelyn Lincoln, Mrs. Kennedy's personal secretary, to see if she could get Mrs. Kennedy's attention. Looking around, O'Brien found a box with what he thought was a Bible. It was a missal — the prayers of the Roman Catholic Mass in both Latin and English. It was handed to the judge with the typed words of the oath.

Mrs. Kennedy stepped timidly into the room. The President grasped both her hands in his and whispered, "Thank you." He nodded for the ceremony to start. Mrs. Johnson was on one side of the President; Mrs. Kennedy, still in bloody gloves and garments, on the other, as he took the oath. Some pushed forward to give him a hearty handshake. President Johnson turned a stern expression on them; the bud of conviviality was crushed. Chief of Police Curry took Judge Sarah Hughes by the arm to leave with her. "God bless you, little lady," he said to Mrs. Kennedy, "but you ought to go back and lie down." Mrs. Kennedy summoned a smile. "No thanks," she said. "I'm fine."

The President said: "Let's get airborne."

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Tomorrow is Thanksgiving and I will be the happiest Thanksgiving my little family has had in 10 years. Why? Because my husband died five weeks ago. He finally drank himself to death.

For once I will sit down with my four children and say grace and there will be peace in the house. No longer will they look at me with terrified eyes and ask why Daddy is screaming and breaking things. No longer will I have to take them to the neighbor's in the middle of the night to protect them against the brutality of a man who behaved like a ferocious animal when the whiskey got to him.

I have always worked to support the family. How much easier it will be with no liquor bills, no court costs, no attorney's fees, no ambulance bills.

It's heavenly to be able to go to sleep at night instead of walking the floor wondering if my husband has passed out in a bar or in some tramp's apartment. You can't imagine the feeling of shame when I got those 3:00 a.m. telephone calls asking me to "come and get him."

Yes, Ann, this Thanksgiving will be my happiest, and I had to tell someone. And you are the only one I dare tell. Thanks for listening. —FREE AT LAST

Dear Free: I'm glad I provided you with an opportunity to express yourself. And now that you have, I hope you will replace the bitterness in your heart with a little compassion.

DEAR ANN: When people mistreat animals they can be reported to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. To whom do I report a man who refuses to allow his wife to go to a doctor because he says all doctors are quacks and if they can't find anything wrong they will make up something so they can send a big bill?

The victim is my neighbor and she asked me to write for an answer. Please provide one. —LADY NEXT DOOR

Dear Lady: Animals must be protected because they can't protect themselves. A woman who is so completely dominated by her husband that she would allow him to keep her from going to a doctor when she is ill is beyond my reach—and yours, too. She should speak to her clergyman. (P.S. She may be out of HIS reach, too.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm one of those unfortunate guys who can't carry a tune. I know I sing off key, but I love to join in when my Rotary buddies sing "Harvest Moon" and "Down by the Old Mill Stream."

Last night at a lodge meeting we all sang my favorite, "God Bless America." I think maybe I was singing louder than usual. My wife yanked my sleeve and yelled in my ear, "If you don't shut up I'm leaving." I'd like your opinion of this. —THE TIN EAR.

Dear Ear: Your wife is attaching too much importance to your singing ability—or lack of it. No one expects an ordinary, everyday man to sound like Robert Goulet. I suggest that you cut down on the volume a little, but please don't stop singing. It's good for you.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Lutheran Church Extends Welcome

First Lutheran Church of Warren extends an invitation to the public to worship Thanksgiving morning at 9:30.

The choir will be singing "Hymn Tune Chester" by William Billings. The sermon "For These and All Thy Mercies" will be preached by Pastor Frederick B. Haer.

The director of music at the organ will play his prelude, "Introduction on Kremsler," for his postlude, "Fugue on Kremsler" both by Jan Bender.

The people of the community are cordially invited to worship at this special Thanksgiving Day Service at First Lutheran Church, corner of East street and Third avenue.

Open Church To Be Observed

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Gern wish to announce Open Church for the marriage of their daughter, Sandra, to Greg L. Hogue of Bradford on Saturday, November 30 at the First Baptist Church.

The ceremony will be performed at 2 p.m. with a reception following at the church.

Tidioute Plans Special Service

The congregations of United Presbyterian, St. John's Roman Catholic and United Methodist Churches in Tidioute will participate in a community Thanksgiving service tonight at 7:30 in the United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Robert Zorn, pastor of Tidioute United Presbyterian Church, will be the speaker and the combined choirs will sing two Thanksgiving anthems.

The offering this year will be sent to help the starving children of the Nigeria-Biafra crisis.

The entire community is cordially invited to join in this service of Thanksgiving.

Worship Service At Starbrick

The Rev. George L. Brasser of Gillett, Pa., will be the guest speaker Sunday at the 11 a.m. worship service of Starbrick Community Church.

Following the service a tureen dinner will be held at the church for members to meet Mr. Brasser.

The Spirit of Thanksgiving

Warren Jaycettes on Tuesday gathered to fill Thanksgiving Baskets destined to make tomorrow happier for needy families in Warren County. Just one of several service programs sponsored by the wives of Warren Jaycees, plenty of goodies and staples were packed in the spirit of giving and to prove somebody cares. The Jaycettes also have plans for a Christmas project—also for families in need during those holidays. (Photo by Mansfield)

Annual United Thanksgiving For The Sugar Grove Area Churches

Churches of the Sugar Grove area are meeting at United Presbyterian Church at 8 p.m. today (Wednesday) for their annual united Thanksgiving service. Pastor Charles M. McIntyre, acting president, will preside with other pastors assisting.

The organist of Lander United Methodist Church will use as a prelude "Verdant Meadows" by Handel. The choir of that church, under the direction of Miss Norma Mills, will sing the anthem "Come Ye Thankful People" by Thompson. For the offertory, Miss Mills has chosen "Gratitude" by Clarke.

The Thanksgiving message will be by the Rev. Theodore Pagett, pastor of Sugar Grove Free Methodist Church. His topic will be "The Loving Kindness of God."

An offering will be taken for the projects of the ministerial group who support, in part, the Bible work of Warren County, the summer camp in the Sugar Grove area and current expense of group operation.

THE GIRLS

By Franklin Folger

"It's just that I don't know if I'd care to be remembered every time a tub of cheese arrives."

Everyone Will Be Welcome

Everyone is welcome to the Thanksgiving Service at Calvary Baptist Church at 7 p.m. today (Wednesday). The theme will be "I Am Thankful For The Bible."

Richard Reed, George Dingeldien and Fred Burns will develop this theme. The senior choir will sing "Praise Ye" by Wilson and Connie Reitz will sing a solo, "America the Beautiful."

The opportunity will be given anyone in the congregation to express thanks to God for his goodness in the past year.

Holiday Affair At Age Center

The area social security representative will visit the Warren Age Center at 1:30 p.m. Friday to provide contributors and customers attending the Pre-holiday Sale an opportunity to discuss any problems or questions in private.

A wide variety of handmade articles will be offered for sale by senior citizens and handicapped persons. Among the items to be featured are hand loomed rugs, tote bags, knit boots, candle sticks, napkin holders, fancy work and Christmas decorations.

The pre-holiday sale opens at 10 a.m. Friday and will continue until 5 p.m. A 50 cent lunch will be available.

Seventh Degree Association Meets At East Branch Grange

The Seventh Degree Association met last Saturday at East Branch Grange, the meeting being preceded by a tureen dinner.

Watson Grange was in charge of the program which included a song, "Joy To The World," Thanksgiving Prayer, a skit, "Thanksgiving Turkey," by Guy and Ruby Wilcox; "What I'm Thankful For," Grocery Store Game, "Christmas and New Year Bells," read by Ida Grace Larson; "The Noses Ones-Won" by Paul Campbell and Ida Grace Larson and Christmas Recipe read by Jean Hollabaugh.

The association has been asked to act as host July 23, 1969 for the visitation program at Diamond Grange. Plans will be discussed at the next meeting.

Since the next regular meeting would fall on the same night as Pomona practice, members voted to dispense with the January meeting. The next meeting will be held March 22, 1969 at Ackley Grange, East Branch to furnish the program.

Announcements and coming events include: Crawford County Pomona, Dec. 4, Penline Grange; Lawrence County Annual Youth Banquet, Nov. 30, Willard Grange (contact Ida Grace Larson for further information); January 25, 1969, Pomona practice at Diamond Grange, 7:30-9:30 p.m.; Dec. 2, pancake supper at East Branch.

Other announcements included the fact that John W. Scott, Past Pennsylvania State Master was recently elected National Master and the death Oct. 25 of E. Carroll Beane, who was until last November, High Priest of Demeter.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
How do you remove your turkey from the pan onto a turkey platter without tearing it apart?

They're so heavy with the stuffing. Hot, too.

I need advice!
A Housewife's Helper

Well, here's the way I do mine:
I put an oven mitt on each hand and slip a plastic bag over them. Then just lift the bird out with my hands and put it on the platter.

Just be sure the plastic bags are heavy ones which won't melt when they come in contact with the hot turkey or the sides of the roaster. And Happy Thanksgiving, Shug.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Did you ever get in bed and find the sheets so cold that you nearly freeze?

Some of us can't afford (or don't like) electric blankets, and our mothers aren't around anymore to heat those good old bags of salt or a flat iron to put in the foot of the bed.

I'm an old bachelor. I have a teenage nephew who spent the night with me recently. When he jumped in his bed and pulled up the covers, he lay on his side and kicked his feet as if he were running.

He said this warms up the sheets in no time at all. Well, I tried it and quick as a flash my feet were warm, too.

He also showed me that you can move your arms rapidly and get them warm, too. It sounds and looks crazy, but I guess it's the friction and muscle exercise that generates heat.

But you WON'T believe this!
Uncle Oscar

I laughed when I read it, but I tried it on a camping trip and it works! So my thanks to Uncle Oscar and his teenage nephew.

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:
I'm among the Senior Citizens and enjoy every minute of it. There's never a dull moment and never enough time to accomplish the many things I would like to do.

WHY some people become so bored I will never understand — for there are so many things in this beautiful world to keep one interested.

If we are alert and interested we can always learn something new, thus never become bored.

I have been keeping house for fifty years and hope I'm fortunate enough to have another score. I always read your hints each day for new ideas and find lots of them.

Bertie B. Tuggle

God bless you, Bertie. Love ya' with all my heart.

Heloise

Dear Friends:
This is for you folks who have small dogs or kitty-cats who like warm food and you refrigerate the unused portions of the can between feedings.

A veterinarian recently told me to break up bread into small pieces in a bowl and pour a little boiling water on it. Then put in the dog food, mash it all together and it would make a perfect lukewarm meal for my pet.

We have been doing this for weeks and find our little doggie just loves it.

This saves having to wash a pan which we ordinarily used to warm his food in—and remember the many, many times we got it too hot and had to wait for it to cool?

Too, the small amount of bread and hot water makes it soupy like most tiny dogs like.

Heloise

them married with little ones of their own.

Last Christmas, I hit upon the idea of photo albums with snapshots from birth to marriage for the older girls.

They were so thrilled with their albums. Maybe others would like to use my idea this year.

Mrs. H. N. Keith

DEAR HELOISE:

Had you ever thought of saving the small hem of old sheets? They are just the right width for the inside bands on skirts, slacks or shorts and never seem to be worn like the rest of the sheet.

Just sew them to the inner side of the band before turning the band. The sheet hem is just the right thickness to give body and keep the band from wrinkling.

I also use the small hem for the inside of my belts. Saves me money, too.

A Daily Reader

Thanks, hon, from all of us who sew.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I hit upon an idea for mother's with several receiving blankets leftover.

Just sew several together (they don't even have to match) and they make ideal covers for baby's bed.

Thanksgiving Day Service At Trinity Memorial Church

The Thanksgiving Day service at Trinity Memorial Church will be held at 10:30 a.m., tomorrow.

In announcing the service the Rev. Richard H. Baker, emphasized special thanks will be given for those in our community who voluntarily serve in many capacities for the benefit of others.

The choir under the direction of Carl E. Stout will sing "All Praise to God Who Reigns Above" by Lenel as the Offertory Anthem. Organ music will include Bach's "Jesus, Prince-less Treasure" and "Prelude in A Minor". Leo Sowerby's setting of the Choral Eucharist will be sung.

The loose offering at the service has been designated for the Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief.

The Rev. Stephen R. Framp-ton will assist at the Eucharist and Mr. Lee Harris, a theological student at General Seminary, New York City, will read the Epistle. Mr. Harris is a Candidate for Holy Orders from the Diocese of New York.

"Family-Night Service" Planned

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Chandeliers Valley United Methodist Church will be in charge of a "Family-Night Service" at the church at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The film, "A Visitor at Christmas" will be shown.

Following the service a social time will be held and everyone is welcome.

Warren Grange Presents Pins And Special Certificates

Master Fred Simones presided at the recent meeting of Warren Grange, 1025 with 38 members enjoying a tureen supper and about 50 attending the session.

A collection was taken and a check will be sent to Ralph Peterson's mother to aid destitute Vietnamese children. It was suggested to make benches for the fair grounds as a grange project.

Highlight of the program by the Lecturer was presentation of pins and certificates to 25 and 60 year members with Warren-Forrest County Grange Deputy, Robert Jameson, doing the honors.

Members present to receive their pins were Harry Nelson, Clarence Smith, Myron and Pauline Rapp, Fred and Gladys Simones, Robert Spencer and Cleo Douglas will receive their pins by mail as will 60 year members unable to be present, Ray Laufer, William Olney, Ethel Armstrong and Ruth Beckwith.

The program also included several accordion numbers by Shirleane Johnson; several solos by Margaret Drivas, accompanied by Shirley Wright; saxophone selection by Delbert Werle and accordion and saxophone duet by Shirleane Johnson and Delbert Werle.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Monday at the grange hall when it is hoped William Allen will demonstrate "Miniature Trees."

Miss Lowe Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lowe Sr., of Sefton, Pa., wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to Sgt. Edward A. Kelsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin G. Kelsey, of 31 Meadow Lane, Warren.

Sgt. Kelsey is stationed at MacDill AFB, Florida. No date has been set for the wedding.

JUICY SOUP: When you have a half empty can of tomato or "V-8" juice, add it to a can of Campbell's condensed split pea with ham soup.

Warren County Youth Grangers

Warren County Youth Grangers met last Friday night at Ackley Grange Hall when the program was presented by Jean Hollabaugh of Watson Grange.

Featured was a poem, "With Thankful Heart," Vegetable Quiz; Thanksgiving Dinner and a dance, "Highland Fling" by Robin Hollabaugh, Virginia Roberts and Ralph Rapp presented "The Noses Ones-Won".

It was reported five questionnaires have been received and a discussion followed as to how to interest more youths to join the Grange. Any Grange that has not as yet returned the questionnaire is requested to do so.

Warren Youth Grange will have a bowling party at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 8 at Sugar Bowl Lanes. The next meeting will be held January 10 at Brokenstraw Grange. There will be a $1 gift exchange, boys to furnish boys' gifts and girls, girl's gifts. Ackley Grange will have the program.

Friday's meeting concluded with refreshments served by Ida Grace Larson and Lillian Benson.

HURRY HOT SANDWICH
Top rusk or split corn bread with drained canned vertical pack Blue Lake green beans and drained canned salmon. Dot with butter, heat in the oven and serve with heated canned tomato sauce with cheese ladled over.

Special Welcome Is Extended

North Warren United Presbyterian Church invites all friends and neighbors in the North Warren area to the Thanksgiving Service at 10 a.m. tomorrow. A special welcome is extended to all student nurses at Warren State Hospital.

The worship committee is collecting used copies of Presbyterian Life and The Upper Room for distribution at the state hospital. A box for these issues will be found at the Church street entrance to the church.

The senior choir, under the direction of James Cruickshank, will present the annual Christmas Cantata at the state hospital chapel on Wednesday, Dec. 18. The cantata will also be given at the church on Sunday, Dec. 22.

PRINCESS OF THE SEA SOUP: Frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup is a delicate charmer. Try it with a garnish of chopped dill, or as a sauce over fish. It's superb as a base for seafood curry or creamed hard-cooked eggs.

Clymer Tips Eisenhower With Big Fourth Quarter

CLYMER, N.Y. — The Eisenhower Knights just couldn't get the ball through the hoop here last night and fell to a sharp-shooting Clymer five, 49-38. The Knights came within three points of topping the pirates several times in the clash, but were never quite able to get by the Clymer men.

Bob Russell was the bright star in the Ike lineup as he tallied five field goals and sank seven foul points for a total of 17. Russell was also the big man on the boards for the Blue and Gold, pulling down a total of 22 miscued shots.

Big Ten Releases All-League Team

CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Johnson and Tom Curtis of Michigan, and Ohio State's Dave Foley were the only unanimous choices for the 1968 All-Big Ten football squad named by The Associated Press.

Johnson, the conference's scoring and rushing record-breaker, and Curtis, a defensive back who set an interception mark, joined four other Wolverines on the offensive-defensive first lineup chosen by the AP's selection board.

The others were quarterback Dennis Brown, offensive end Jim Mandich, defensive end Phil Seymour and defensive tackle Tom Goss.

Foley teamed with Rufus Mayes, another 6-foot-5, 250-pound Ohio State tackle, on offense. Two other members of Ohio State's Rose Bowl-bound, undefeated champions were named on defense — linebacker John Tatum and back Ted Provost.

Tatum was the only sophomore among the 22 all-stars although this was a season of great first year varsity men. Ohio State, for instance, started 13 of them.

The rest of the squad consists of 15 seniors and six juniors.

By DAVE PIRILLO.
Youngsville survived a last minute full court press to come out on top of a 47-45 decision with the Ridgway Elkers, in both squads' seasonal debut.

The low scoring tilt was highlighted by the accurate eye of senior Tom Burlleigh, who hit on nine field goals and six foul shots for 24 marks. Burlleigh, without a doubt, held the Elkers in place for both halves.

His clutch shooting kept the Elkers from overtaking the home team on a couple of occasions. He netted 17 of his

Grimsley Says Southern California Navy, Alabama To Drop Games

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Southern California is like a heavyweight fighter with a big right hand (color it orange for O.J. Simpson) which it throws all the time.

Alabama is like a tough little kid who keeps picking on the kid down the block (color it Auburn) and Navy is like a subtle submarine that sneaks out of the water every so often to throw a broadside into a stronger enemy (color it black for the Black Knights of Army).

The three of them are scheduled to get their come-uppance in this week's closing games. Last week the two upset specials missed by the total of three points, one game a tie. Score: 37-12 for .755, season: 405-119, .772.

Panthers Slap 'Dogs

TIDOUTE — The Commodore Perry Panthers combined good rebounding and a cold Tidoute shooting hand to put together a 67-50 victory over the Bulldogs Tuesday night.

Opening with a full court zone press, the Panthers ran up a 6-0 lead before Mark Randinelli put Tidoute on the score board with a foul shot. Commodore Perry built an eleven point lead in the first seven minutes, but in the closing seconds of the first quarter the Bulldogs closed the gap to 20-12.

Area keggers had a hot night last night as over sixty bowlers rolled games above the cutoff scores. Bill Hunt, from the Church League at the Bowldrome took single game honors in his 256-581 series.

Don Frank and Harold Dobson of the Pepsi League at the Sugar Bowl finished one-two for high series. Frank bowled a 228-619 while Dobson rolled a 223-613. Bud Baughman of the Sylvania Men's League at Riverside also cracked the 600 mark with a 222-613.

points in the first half and the remainder in the final two periods.

Paul Yucha was the only other Eagle to hit the double figure category with 10 points. Next in line was his brother Randy, who chipped in five.

Mickey Buck led the losing contingent with 12 tallies, followed by Bill Enanson's 11 and Scott Johnson's nine. John McCluskey and John Hatfield rounded the Elker scoring with eight and five points, respectively.

The Eagles, at this point, lost the scoring touch and had to fight for their remaining points under a strong Elker press.

For the first game, Youngsville's 35 per cent from the field was fairly respectable. They shot 65 per cent from the charity stripe, while the opposition hit for 71 per cent.

In Jayvee action, the Youngsville squad suffered a crushing 55-16 setback. Al Depauflis was high with 18 points, while T. Saline dropped in 10 for Ridgway. Tom Handnell was high for the Eagles with eight.

WIRE CHATTER

Indiana, Pa. In Bowl
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Undrafted Indiana (Pa.) State University and the University of Delaware were named Tuesday as opponents for the Boardwalk Bowl football game Dec. 14 at Convention Hall here.

Indiana, with a 9-0 record, ranked fifth in the latest poll of small college teams. Delaware had a 1968 record of seven wins and three losses.

Flu Hits Vikings
MINNEAPOLIS, ST. PAUL (AP) — A flu virus spread through the Minnesota Vikings' football team Tuesday, with at least 15 players reported ill. Eleven players missed practice.

Chargers Lose Four
SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Chargers, who licked a rash of injuries to contend for the American Football League's Western Division title, have lost Dick Post and three other players to military service.

Halfback Post, linebacker Jeff Stags, receiver Lane Fenner and safety Dick Farley reported Monday night to Ft. Ord, where they will spend the next nine weeks in U.S. Army basic training. They will be on active duty for six months before returning to their unit in the California National Guard.

Jurgensen Out Again
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sonny Jurgensen, Washington quarterback who has been playing with damaged ribs, missed practice Tuesday with a 102-degree fever and was listed as a doubtful starter in Thursday's National Football League game at Dallas.

GANNON MEETS NIAGARA

By DENNY BONAVIDA

It's a talent-rich team that Gannon College will send to the basketball wars this Saturday but that first opponent-Niagara University, featuring superstar Calvin Murphy—is enough to bring shudders to the coach of the Golden Knights, John "Denny" Bayer.

Bayer, speaking at a preview press luncheon in Erie Tuesday, noted that All-American Murphy isn't the only talent on Niagara's roster. "They've picked up two junior college kids, named Churchwell (6-6) and Samuels (6-3) and they're well-balanced."

"Murphy will get his 40 points. He takes 80 per cent of the team shots, but what hurts is that he shoots at better than 50 per cent accuracy."

"We'll have to stay out of foul trouble and avoid turnovers if we want to beat them, especially in Memorial Auditorium," he noted.

Sizing up Gannon's first trio of games, Bayer noted that the University of Toronto, scheduled into Gannon Audi this Sunday, could be a sleeper, especially if the Golden Knights lose Saturday to Niagara and are "down."

"Then comes Dayton. And Dayton is good; they're very good. They'll throw a 6-11 center, 6-8 1/2 and 6-9 forwards, plus identical twin guards and Don May, graduated Ken May's younger brother at us. That means we'll really have to hustle to stay with them."

The Gannon mentor, in his third year at the helm, had praise aplenty for his own team. "For the first time in five years, I have a team with the ability to run," he said.

"This will make for more exciting basketball for the spectators, since with a running team you usually either win big or lose big."

Bayer said the addition of two junior college standouts, 6-3 guard Bob Baker and 5-11 Gil Hidalgo of Allan Hancock in California, will boost the team. Hidalgo is "as fast with the basketball as anyone I've ever seen," said Bayer, while Baker is "a real leaper and, since he's older, a steadying influence."

Returning for the Knights will be Larry Daly, 6-0 junior guard who is perhaps the finest outside shooter on the team; 6-8 sophomore Glen Summers, who rewrote Gannon's rebounding record book with 495 last season and scored exactly 495 points also; 6-7 junior Ron Johnson, a slow starter but effective at forward or center with a 50 per cent plus floor shooting record; and Al Chrisman, 6-8 soph center whose strength and ability to sink the fouls he draws rate him high on Bayer's list.

Available on the bench will be senior guard Stan Herring (6-0), soph Steve Young (6-6) soph Charlie Fisher (5-11), junior Jim Lee (6-7), junior Jim Redding (6-3), and senior Rick Uritus (5-11).

"Right now we're playing with the best small college teams in the country, which puts our brand of basketball in with the middle-ranking major universities," Bayer noted. "And our goals are to win that small college championship this season and continue to improve our talent each year so we keep on winning."

Sheffield's basketball fortunes took a temporary turn for the worse with the news that 6-2 junior Dave Duell is out for a few weeks with the after-effects of a football injury.

But coach Nick Creola isn't crying too badly, since when Duell's fit for duty again shortly, he'll be joined by 6-5 Chuck Tramontana, who is taking light workouts following a broken collarbone during the grid season.

During the interim, 6-0 junior Rick Grubbs is expected to share the rebounding burden. Sheffield journeys to East Forest on Friday.

Experience and timing continue to be the main areas of effort concerning Warren coach Joe Shantz as the Dragons wind up preparations for their Friday opener against intra-county foe Youngsville.

With Dan Krumm and Randy Jones the two returning lettermen, some game exposure will be needed before the Dragons can be expected to jell.

Foul shooting, an aspect of the game which the Dragons' style of play will probably make very important as the season wears on, was subject of a half-hour workout during the early part of the week. And a note to Dragon foes; judging from the session, Warren should hold its own at the charity stripe.

Winter is really here, though there's no snow on the ground yet. How to tell? Simple; the Warren County Ski Club is planning its first meeting of the season for Friday night at 8:00 p.m. in the Northwest Savings & Loan Co's. Hospitality Room.

Four fifteen-minute films covering phases of skiing competence are scheduled for screening at the meeting, and plans are under way for a used equipment exchange, to be held in December.

Last year the newly-reactivated club had a successful season highlighted by weekly trail races and the February Ski Carnival. President pro-tem Jim Keller extends a hearty invitation to anyone interested, whether a member or not, to attend the session.

MARTI, BECKETT SECOND TEAM

Steve Tundel, John Marchione Of Warren Two-Way Choices For All-Section Squads

Pile-driving back Steve Tundel and workhorse tackle John Marchione of Warren were named to both the offensive and defensive units of the 1968 All-Section team announced Tuesday for Section Two.

Tundel, whose bull-like rushes gained 890 yards for the Dragons this season, and Marchione, a crackjack blocker and fierce tackler, were the lone Dragons on the starting eleven. Tom Marti and Tom Beckett placed on the second team offense, while Marti also was named to the second team defense.

Voting for the team was done by the sports editors and team coaches of the six Section Two school areas, and compiled by Chuck Anderson and the Meadville Tribune sports staff.

Section champion Titusville led the balloting with five players on the first offensive eleven headed by unanimous choice quarterback Craig McNamara. Rockets Sam Babin (back), Steve Bangs (guard), Jim Romanisczyn (back) and Ed Buchan (tied for center) completed the champs' contingent.

Others named to the top team included end Steve Grade of Franklin and Bill Blynt of Corry, guard Norm Hasbuck of Corry, backs Danny Taylor of Corry and Bay Lawrence of Franklin.

Titusville and Meadville placed three men apiece on the defensive first team, with Rockets Bangs and Romanisczyn and Knight Bay Lawrence being two-way choices. Bulldogs Chuck Palmer, Stu Myers, and Walt Moody, plus end Bill Blynt of Corry, tackle Dan Corbett of Corry, middle guard Craig Strawbridge of Titusville, Danny Harrison of Corry rounded out the defensive first team.

The complete teams are as follows:

Tundel Named In UPI Poll

Warren's Steve Tundel had another post-season football honor come his way as he received an honorable mention on an All-State team selected by United Press International Tuesday.

Two Erie players, Cathedral Prep's Pat Steenberge and McDowell's Jeff Davis, were first-team picks in the wire service poll, while Titusville's Bob Putnam, Franklin's Bay Lawrence and Corry's Dan Corbett also were honorable mentions.

The Associated Press All-State poll is expected to be released shortly after Thanksgiving, as some central Pennsylvania schools do not conclude their schedules until the holiday.

Union City Rips Sparta

SPARTANBURG — A hot second quarter and some nifty foul shooting led Union City past Sparta, 91-76, in an independent basketball tilt here Tuesday.

The Spartans held UC even at 19 points apiece in the first period, but could muster only three two-pointers and a pair of free throws while the Bears cut loose for 33 big points in the second stanza.

Harvey Clough, a 6-2 junior, sparked the Bears with 20 points, including ten in that big second stanza. Gregg Anthony totalled 22 for UC, while Joe Briggs sank 13, Pete Ahl 12 and Glenn McKinney 11.

Brent Allen paced Sparta with 21, while Mark Kolaja had 20, Jerry Linden 19 and Rod Skiff 10.

A return match between the two schools is set for Friday at Union City.

Houston Scoring Rapped In Press

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Houston Chronicle said Tuesday it does not believe the University of Houston football team gained much respect around the nation with Saturday's 100-6 victory over Tulsa University.

An editorial said the lopsided score may have been a "commentary on the times that desire for victory, the bigger the better, transcends all other considerations."

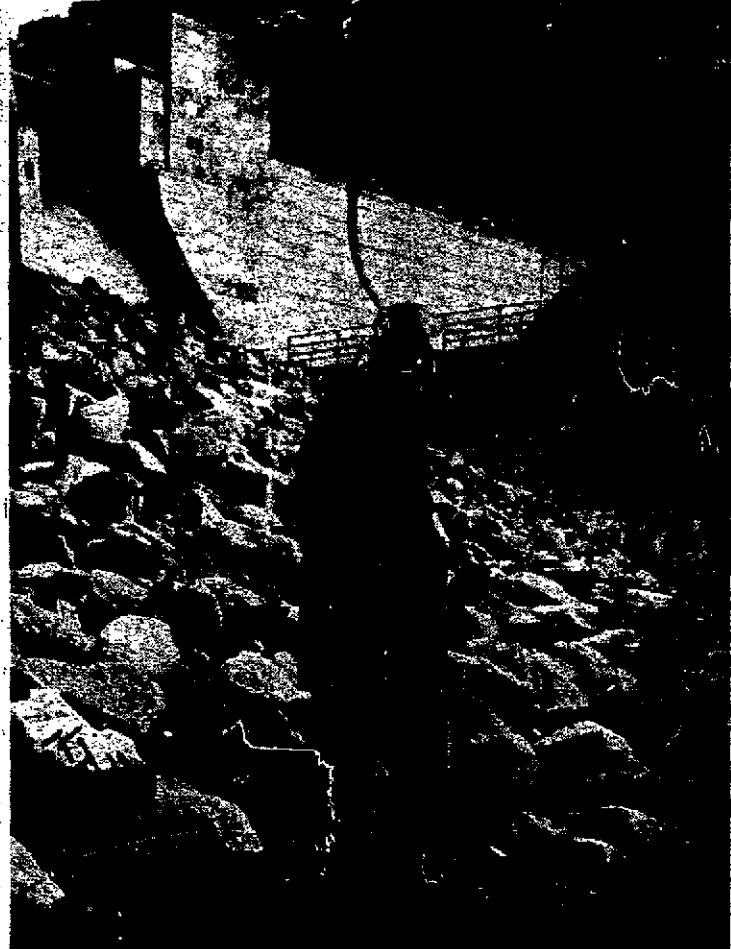

"The fans can take credit for that as much as the players and coaches," the editorial said.

Houston used 52 players, every able-bodied man available, but still ran up 49 points in the final quarter. The Chronicle acknowledged that young players want to show what they can do once they get in the game.

"But whatever happened to old fashioned sportsmanship?" the editorial asked. "To our way of thinking, such humiliations of patently inferior opponents are not in the tradition of good sportsmanship. There comes a time for gallantry over a vanquished foe—even in this day of high pressure, big time college football."

Army, Navy Tilt Like Bible Tale

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Navy football Coach Bill Elias says Saturday's Army-Navy game will be, like last year's contest, a battle between David and Goliath.

"The same situation that exists now existed then, and David beat Goliath a year ago," he said Tuesday as he recalled Navy's 19-14 upset victory over the Cadets in 1967.

"This Saturday is a rematch," Elias told newsmen at a pre-army game luncheon. "But I don't believe that they're beyond our reach. Nor do I think that we can't get the job done," he said. "I think it can be done, and we are gearing everything for it."

On records alone, Navy goes into the game a decided underdog, having lost seven of nine games while Army has won six of nine.

Both teams lost to Penn State and defeated Pittsburgh, but Army made a better showing in both games. The Cadets won 58-25 over Boston College which smashed Navy 49-15 early in the season, so Navy scout Steve Belichick, who watched the Cadets in six games this year, ranks the 1968 squad as good as any Army team he has seen in 13 years and the best for overall balance.

The balance, Belichick said, begins with the offensive backfield.

"They have a tremendous fullback in Charlie Jarvis," he said. "He gains up the middle and he gains around the end."

Belichick said halfbacks Lynn Moore and Bill Hunter give the Cadets, along with Jarvis, three runners averaging more than five yards per carry.

"These other people kill you if you key on Jarvis," he said.

Belichick said the presence of Moore and Hunter in the lineup gives Navy a problem it didn't have last year when "we didn't worry about their halfbacks."

The veteran scout also was full of praise for quarterback Steve Lindell, who he said has "a strong arm, a quick release and quick hands."

"He does a good job of picking a team apart," he said.

Like Elias, Belichick thinks Navy can win Saturday. He is just convinced the assignment will be tougher this year than it was in 1967.

EOC Cagers Sink DuBois Campus

DU BOIS — With three players above 20 points, Edinboro's Warren O'Connell cagers got the season off to a rousing start as they downed the DuBois Dukes 112-84.

Dave Bucka's 30 points led Edinboro, while rebound threat Paul Johnston was a point behind at 29 and Tony Denk canned 23. DuBois got 34 from outside shooting Rusty Schafer, while Bob Schütz added 15 and Tom McCloskey sank 14.

Edinboro's superior height told the tale from the onset, as the as-yet-unlabeled locals pumped to a 48-27 halftime lead. Starting with a zone defense, they switched to a half-court zone press, then to a man-to-man, and put the game away.

Johnston, Rick Nasman and Leo Schlangier corralled the rebounds by the bunch as DuBois found itself on the short end of the lineup.

Warren sank 51 of 108 field goals for a .495 percentage, and canned 10 of 18 free throw attempts. DuBois had more opportunities at the charity stripe, sinking 18 out of 30, but was behind Warren 33-51 in two-pointers made.

Warren is idle until Dec. 7 when the State Police Lawmen provide the opposition at Warren Area High's gym.

Graduating From College or A Terminal Program in High School?

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE JOB OPPORTUNITIES RIGHT HERE AT HOME!

Most college and terminal High School graduates prefer to locate in their home communities. They like to be close to families and friends.

Now — the Jamestown Area Chamber of Commerce and Manufacturers Association of the Jamestown Area have a program to help Jamestown Area students find such employment.

What is the plan?

Representatives of Jamestown Area business, education and industry will interview students on December 27th and 28th at the Jamestown Community College during the Christmas vacation period. They will conduct 30 minute screening interviews.

Who is eligible?

The program is open to all college and terminal High School Students whose families live in Jamestown's trading area.

Also eligible are college graduates due to be released from active military service or those recently released and not yet started in their careers.

Former graduates employed outside the Jamestown area who wish to be considered by Jamestown area employers.

Pennsylvania Happenings

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Public schools are under mass attack today—not only from teachers, sometimes striking, who want more money and smaller classes, but from the kids they teach.

A Pennsylvania State University survey of the growing high school dropout problem says the so-called traditional or old-fashioned educational methods must be scrapped.

Schools and teachers, the survey says, must show compassion, must show they care or they have failed.

"Rigid behavior rules and curriculum standards alienate lower-class students, making them hostile and uncooperative," says Drs. Jacob J. Kaufman and Morgan V. Lewis, co-authors of a report made for Penn State's Institute for Research on Human Resources. Kaufman is the Institute's director.

The study of some 400 dropouts in Pennsylvania, supported by a federal grant, makes this determination: the days of the teacher as a lecturer, talking book, judge and disciplinarian must end, especially in slum neighborhood and ghetto schools.

"By the time the disadvantaged student arrives in secondary school, he has reacted to the inappropriateness of his educational experience and has developed a powerful set of negative attitudes toward almost everything associated with school," the report alleges.

"The mass oriented textbook with its logical presentation of the structure of an academic discipline is as out of place as a buggy on a superhighway."

Bluntly, it is suggested—and think about this—that it is more important for the poverty student to study anything, rather than be tied down to a specific subject in which he shows absolute, no interest.

It's the doing that counts, then, not the what.

Dr. Kaufman hints that there are "some serious doubts about the suitability of the public school in general, and vocational education in particular, to serve students from a poverty culture."

He paints this picture of present practices: the students, with poor elementary school skills, show all the traits that irritate and alienate teachers. The teachers respond by rejecting the students, sometimes forcing them out of their classes or not even attempting to teach. The student becomes a drop-out, believes himself a failure and ceases to try to succeed.

"Teachers are not solely at fault," insists the report. "The demands of teaching itself, even under favorable conditions; the rigidity and authoritarianism of most schools; the lack of freedom that teachers have experienced throughout their lives; all of these conditions combine to produce frustration and resentment which is directed at their students."

Schools must cease demanding that teachers produce outstanding students — that's the suggestion, anyway. Teachers must help the student learn, tailoring subjects to create an interest and desire for knowledge.

"The learning experience for the culturally deprived cannot begin with a book," Drs. Kaufman and Lewis say. "It must begin with questions or problems that develop from experiences outside of school."

"A student's own why's are far more important than the stylized why's of the textbook."

OPENING: The Pennsylvania Ballet, fast gaining national fame for the Keystone State, opens its "home season" in Philadelphia's Academy of Music the day after Thanksgiving with a premiere of Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker." Starting the husband-wife team of Barbara Sandomato and Alexi Yudenich, it will be repeated during Christmas week, Dec. 23-28.

3 In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM
In memory of RHEA BRENNAN who passed away Nov. 27, 1962.

The cover of life's book is closed
For one we loved so well.
But loving deeds of bygone days
Are what the pages tell.
Each chapter in it leaves a thought
As lovely as can be,
For us to keep within our hearts
In loving memory.

HORNE
Peter J. Horne
Is Co-Star
In 'Odd Couple'

When the curtain opens at 8:30 p. m. December 6 and 7 at Beatty School auditorium, Warren Player's Club enthusiasts will be in for a full evening of delightful comedy as the production of "The Odd Couple" gets under way.

Co-starring with Al Hulse (who portrays Felix -- the role made famous by Jack Lemmon) is Peter J. Horne as Oscar, one of the adversaries in the battle of neatness versus sloppiness. This is Peter's first appearance with Players but he has been in numerous shows as a stand up comic at resort hotels in the Pocono Mountains and Lakewood, N. Y. He also me'd a number of live semi-pro stage shows.

Born in Hazleton, Pa., he and his wife, Patricia Ann, make their home in North Warren.

Peter is account sales representative for Moore Business Forms Inc. He's a natural in "The Odd Couple" by Neil Simon -- a play that has been called a hurricane of hilarity.

Thanksgiving Day Marks 50th Anniversary of Y'ville Couple

By FRANCES RHODES

Open House will be observed next Saturday, November 30, at Saron Lutheran Church social rooms, Youngsville, in honor of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Hendrickson of Youngsville.

Ernest Hendrickson, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lars Hendrickson, and Lena Marie Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Johnson, were married in the Youngsville Methodist parsonage by the Rev. J. Lyons on Thanksgiving Day, November 28, 1918. This, their fiftieth anniversary, is only the fourth time since then that Thanksgiving and November 28 have coincided.

World War I had been history for less than three weeks, and Ernest was just out of the army after nearly five years, part of which he spent in the Mexican border service. The wedding witnesses were his brother Frank (now president of Youngsville borough council) and his bride of only a few weeks. (Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hendrickson celebrated their golden wedding in October.)

The bride's sister Mabel (now Mrs. Carey Marsh of Brocton, N.Y.) served a wedding dinner at the family home off East Main Street, Youngsville, and after a honeymoon trip by train to Buffalo and Niagara Falls the newlyweds returned there, took care of the invalid Mrs. Johnson until her death, and have lived there ever since.

They farmed at first, "Yenx" as he then was known, and still is (he says that when he was a small boy, that's how a playmate rendered "Ernest" and it "stuck") - "Yenx" delivered milk throughout Youngsville by horse and buggy. When the plant which is now the National Forge was started, he and his brother Frank went to work there; and at one time, during the depression, they were two of only three men still employed. "Yenx" retired in 1958 with over forty years' service.

For hobbies, he has been an apiarist, roaming the York Hill woods above the old farm for "bee trees"; and he has raised golden pheasants and peacocks. He is a member of Stillwater Masonic Lodge.

Mrs. Hendrickson (whom many still call "Tommy", a nickname acquired in youth because she was a tomboy, she says) is a charter member and past matron of Youngsville Lodge 478, Order of the Eastern Star, and helped constitute the Youngsville American Legion Auxiliary. Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson are both members of Saron Lutheran Church and of Brokenstraw Garden Club.

They have one son, Warren, married to the former Phyllis Carr of Youngsville, and a granddaughter, Kathleen. The open house on Saturday will be from 2 p.m. until 5.

Ludlow Area News

By MRS. HILDUR WENSTRAN
The Ladies Aid of the Mission Covenant Church held their meeting at the church Monday evening with a good attendance. The meeting was opened by the president Mrs. Janice Garris. A special guest was the Rev. Henry Pearson of Nome, Alaska, who is visiting former parishes and friends in this area.

The Rev. Pearson is a former pastor of the Ludlow and Sheffield Mission churches. He is on a year's furlough from his work in Nome, Alaska. He showed colored slides and told of his work, the ways of the people and the work in his church, his family and home, etc. They are now residing at Seaward Peninsula. He talked on church's Mission in Alaska which started in 1887. They have spent the past four years in Nome where they also have a radio station KICY. The family are now staying in Chicago, Ill.

Out of town guests were the Rev. and Mrs. Earnest Bond from Bradford and Mr. Muir of Kane. Refreshments were served from a table with a beautiful arrangement of flowers and candles.

The Lutheran Church Women of Moriah Church met Thursday evening with the members of Tabor Lutheran Church as guests. There were 28 from Kane and two from the First Lutheran Church in Warren. The president Mrs. Robert E. Olson opened the meeting and welcomed members and guests. Those from Warren were Miss Harriet Bartow and Mrs. Martha Schultz, who gave a program of colored slides showing their visit to the Indian Reservation in Montana. They also displayed several articles brought home from there which were of interest to all present. The next meeting will be held on December 5 and will start with a tureen supper. It was decided that instead of the gift exchange that the money should be given to ACT instead. Mrs. Enoch Nelson introduced the Warren guests. Hostesses that served were Mrs. Ernest Swanson, Mrs. Algot Swanson, Mrs. Kermit Johnson and Mrs. George Matis.

The collection consists of "Photogenic Soprano" by Dunnett; "Psychic People" by Smith; "Home has a Heart" by Bjorn; "Start with an empty nest" by Kinney; "Mountain of My Fear" by Roberts; "Thundergate; The Forts of Niagara" by Howard.

Young People — "Rocket Rescue" by Halacy; "Certain Slant of Light" by Ruckett; "Ages of Life" by Milne.

Juvenile — "Do Not Annoy the Indians" by Baker; "Birthdays for Frances" by Hoban; "Kavik, the Wolf Dog" by Morey; "Crane Maiden" by Matsutani; "Pastels are Great" by Hawkinson; "Ghost Town of the American West" by Silverberg.

An offshoot of the Gulf Stream warms Norway's coast year-round, enabling most inlets to stay ice free, even though they are on the same latitude as Siberia and southern Greenland.

Tidoute Library Unit Reelects Officers

The Tidoute Public Library has been given a brighter look with the installation of new electrical circuitry and fluorescent fixtures. The contract job was completed this week by Zimmerman Electric Inc. of Erie under bid of $2,866. Repainting the ceiling an off-white will bring the total renovation cost to about $3,000.

The Tidoute Public Library Association held its annual meeting and re-elected Charles R. Anderson as trustee for a five-year term. At the board of directors' meeting, the incumbent officers were retained for another year. These are: president, Charles R. Anderson; vice president, Mrs. Lenore McIntyre; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. G. B. Chase.

Acting on a carried motion, the board will request Tidoute Borough Council to continue the one mill tax levy for operating purposes. Fire insurance coverage was transferred from an out-of-town firm to a local agent with an immediate 30-day binder for $20,000. on building and $5,000. on contents. This may be adjusted following a professional appraisal.

It was voted to transfer $1,000. from checking account to savings account in the Book

Fund. Salaries of librarian and custodian were unchanged but each was given a bonus.

The treasurer's report showed receipts of $6,979.78 in the general fund, the revenue being derived from borough tax, rentals, fines, interest, stock dividends, Warren County School District, individuals, and non-resident dues.

Expenditures for the year totaled $3,027.60, leaving a balance of $3,952.18. Expenditures included salaries, social security and wage taxes, utilities, insurance, supplies, postage, printing, advertising, transportation, audit, and roof repairs. The general fund's savings account has a balance of $1,768.17 and $5500. in certificates of deposit.

Receipts in the Book Fund totaled $4,951.71, derived from trust funds and interest. Expenditures for books, magazines and certificate of deposit amounted to $3,147.08, leaving a balance of $1,804.63. Book Fund monies may be used only for books and magazines. The Book Fund savings account has a balance of $788.02, with $9,000. in certificates of deposit. The librarian, Mrs. G. B. Chase, reported a total circulation of books numbering 12, 016, as follows: adult, 2571; juvenile, 5267; county -- adult, 1016, juvenile, 2170; school -- adult, 300, juvenile, 702. There were 69 new borrowers, the library was open 136 days, and the magazine distribution was 2556.

New books added numbered 332, as follows: by purchase -- adult, 140, juvenile, 174; by gift -- adult, 10, and juvenile, 8.

Thanks to Everett Stokes for this magnificent view of our community.

Let us GIVE THANKS

We are proud indeed to be a part of this thriving community... and to live among our wonderful friends and neighbors. So on this Thanksgiving we pause with heartfelt thanks for the priceless blessings we all enjoy as Americans. We hope tomorrow, when all American gathers around the Thanksgiving Feast Table, that we as a great community within a great nation will renew and intensify our belief in the goodness of man, and strive in each of our daily lives to live at peace and in joy with one another.
